OCT 3 1817

Friday August 26th 1814.

The Governor this day issued General Orders in the following words to wit.—

The landing upon our shores by the enemy hordes of marauders, for the purpose avowedly to create by plunder, burning and general devastation, all possible individual and public distress, gives scope for action to the Militia of Pennsylvania by repelling that foe, and with just indignation seek to avenge the unprovoked wrongs heaped on our unoffending country. The Militia generally within the Counties of Dauphin, Lebanon, Berks, Schuylkill, York, Adams and Lancaster, and that part of Chester County, which constitutes the 2nd brigade of the 3rd division and those corps particularly, who when danger first threatened, patriotically tendered their services in the field, are earnestly invited to rise (as on many occasions Pennsylvania has heretofore done superior to local feeling and evasives that might possibly be drawn from an imperfect military system, and to repair with that alacrity which duty commands and it is fondly hoped inclination will prompt, to the several places of brigade or regimental rendezvous that shall respectively be designated by the proper officer, and thence to march to the place of general rendezvous.

Pennsylvanians, whose hearts must be gladdened at the recital of the deeds of heroism achieved by their fellow-citizen Soldiers now in arms on the lake frontier and within the enemies country, now the occasion has occurred, will with ardour seek and punish the same implacable foe, now marauding on the Atlantic shores of two of our sister States. Under these impressions, and confident that obedience will be given to the pressing call of our country, the Commander in chief issues the orders following.—

General Orders.

Harrisburg, 26th August, 1814.

To John M. Hyneman, Adjutant General

You are commanded, in conformity to a requisition from the constituted authorities of the Union, to have prepared for marching and to have marched to York town in the County of York, the place of rendezvous, 5000 men, Pennsylvania militia, from the 2^d brigade of the 3^d division, and from the 4th, 5th and 6th divisions, which detachment is to consist of volunteers who have or who may tender their services, of flank companies, infantry and riflemen, who are to march in companies, and of drafted militia, designated for service under general Orders of the 22^d July last past, which shall be organized into one division and two brigades (if not otherwise directed) on the fifth day of September next, agreeably to law and conformably to the regulations prescribed for the United States army.

To the Command of which division, I designate major general Nathaniel Watson and brigadier general John Foster and John Addams. The major general, and the officers and men under him, are to obey the Commands and execute the orders of general William Winder Commandant for the United States, within the 10th military district.

The troops may be marched from York either in division after organization, or in smaller bodies before organization, if it further the service and General Winder shall so direct; and to such place as by him shall be designated.

The term of Service to be six months unless sooner discharged by the authority of the United States.

Simon Snyder

Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

N. B. Boileau, Aid-de-Camp.

Adjutant Generals Office.

Harrisburg, Aug, 26, 1814.

Sir—Agreeably to a general order of this day, you will have prepared for marching and have marched to Yorktown in the County of York, the place of rendezvous, the quota of Militia of your brigade which you were ordered to have detached and organized by a general order of the 22^d July last, on the 5th day of September next.

The officers and men must be (as far as practicable) armed and furnished with blankets and knapsacks.

John M. Hyneman, Adj. Gen. P. M.

To George Welsh Esquire,

Inspector of the 2nd Brigade 5th Division

Sir—You will direct such volunteers and flank companies as soon as practicable to march on towards Baltimore, or to such other point as your information may enable you to judge most proper at this crisis, without any regard to the time fixed for the General rendezvous—and direct the commanding officer of each company or detachment to report himself to General

Winder, or any other officer commanding under the U. States.

By order of the Governor
N. B. Boileau Aid-de-Camp

Note—A similar order & letter was written to Archd S. Jordon Esqre

Of which notice was immediately forwarded to General William Winder, to Generals Watson, Foster and Adams, and to the several Inspectors of Brigades within the 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th Divisions of Militia made subject to the said Call.

Saturday, August 27th 1814.

Two warrants were this day drawn by the Governor in favor of John Light and Nathaniel W. Sample Jr Esquires, Inspectors of the first and second brigades of the fourth division of militia composed of the County of Lancaster or the sum of one thousand dollars each to enable them to carry into effect the Governors general Orders of the twenty sixth instant in marching the quotas of Militia from their respective Brigades—for which sums the said Inspectors respectively are to account.

Garvin Henry stated to the Governor that he wanted six rifles of the number which on the twenty fifth instant he was authorized to purchase, the cost of which would amount to twenty dollars each—whereupon the Governor authorized the purchase of them at that price, provided they could not be obtained for a less sum.

The Governor this day issued General Orders in the following words, which were immediately communicated to the Inspectors of Militia within the Counties of Philadelphia, Bucks, Montgomery, Delaware, Chester, Lancaster, Dauphin, Lebanon, Berks, Schuylkill, Northampton Lehigh and Pike.

General Orders.

Harrisburg 27th Aug. 1814.

The recent destruction of the Capital of the United States, the threatened and probable conflagration of the metropolis of a sister state, and the general threatened aspect of affairs warranting the opinion that an attack is meditated by the enemy on the shores of the Delaware; the Governor, to guard against surprise and to have ready an efficient force of freemen to repel the enemy in case of such an event, orders and directs that the militia generally within the Counties of Philadelphia,

Bucks, Montgomery, Delaware, Chester, Lancaster, Dauphin, Lebanon, Berks, Schuylkill, Lebanon, Northampton and Pike (in addition to those drafted and designated for the service of the United States under Orders of the 22nd July, who are already subject to the orders of General Bloomfield) be held in readiness to march at a moments warning to such place as may be named in subsequent orders that will issue if the exigencies of our Country shall require.

The several brigade inspectors within their respective bounds, are commanded to execute promptly this order.

The generals and other officers are urged to assist in the providing of equipments for the men.—Those for whom arms cannot be found within the respective brigade bounds, will it is presumed be furnished by the United States at the place of rendezvous.

It is confidently hoped the ardour and love of country which pervade the hearts of Pennsylvanians at the present alarming crisis, will induce many to form themselves into volunteer corps and immediately to march for Philadelphia.—It is thus a proper spirit to resist an intolerant foe will be evinced, and many difficulties obviated. The Governor promises himself the satisfaction of meeting there an host, nerved with resolution to live free or die, in defence of their liberties and their Country, He will act with them in any capacity for which his talents shall fit him.

In answer to the enquiries made by Thomas Lelper Esqre Chairman of the General Committee of defence for the City of Philadelphia—that committee was this day informed of the number of Militia now assembled, and that may be expected to march to Philadelphia, under the Governors General Orders of the 27th ult.

Instructions were this day issued by the Governor to John M. Hyneman Adjutant General, relative to the march, organization, and the commissioning of the officers of the Militia now ordered into the public service—as follows to wit.—

Philadelphia 13th September 1814, late at night.

Sir,

Yours to Mr Trimble of the 9th instant, is now before me having been forwarded to this place by express.

The old Commissions of Militia officers designated for service are not expired, see 36th section of the present Militia law 3^d paragraph. The must command the drafts unless they relinquish voluntarily to the new officers—That drafts under the old law which directs there shall be 8 classes, and that 8 companies shall form a regiment, shall be commanded by officers elected under the new law, which directs there shall 10 classes and ten companies in each regiment, is an absurdity.

It was because there could be no drafts made under the new law until after a classification which is to take place after the fourth Monday in October next, that the General Orders of the 22nd of July last were framed as they are, having express reference to the old law, Commissions such as can lawfully issue are forwarded by John Ostler the express. —If any further difficulties should occur because commissions of the form required should happen not to be forwarded, let the troops notwithstanding march, and forward their names rank &c^a and such Commissions as can lawfully issue shall be sent to them. The officers of those companies who have volunteered their services having associated perhaps with a view to obviate the difficulties created by the present law, may have commissions as volunteers, but let them be for seven years—the next Legislature I am sure will be disposed to correct the vast and manifold evils of the present law.

Your presence here is absolutely necessary, so various and multiplied are the duties of the Brigade Inspectors of the first division, that it is impossible for them to discharge them all. In a letter to the Secretary of War, I have suggested for special reasons which I trust will have desired effect, that the troops at York be directed to march for the defence of the shores of the Delaware, this suggestion grew out of an opinion that the Baltimoreans had a force more than sufficient to repel the foe—that here we were almost without any defence &c^a.

If Brigade Inspector Stanley's detachment should happen to prove a surplussage of men, over and above 5,000.

You will in that case order him to march his detachment by the nearest and best rout to Marcus hook on the Delaware where on the 19th Instant will rendezvous a detachment of Militia from Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Bucks.

Very respectfully

Your friend,

Simon Snyder

John M. Hyneman Esqre
Adjutant General, Penna Militia
at York.

Same day

A General Order was signed by the Governor, and issued to the Inspectors of the first and second Brigade of the second Division, and to the Inspectors of the first Brigade of third Division of the Militia of this state in the following words—to wit.—

Philadelphia 13th Septem^r 1814.

The term of service to be six months unless sooner discharged. The detachment (as far as practicable) must be completely armed and provide themselves with blankets and knapsacks &c^a. But any who do not possess the means of supplying themselves with knapsacks and canteens, will be furnished at the place of rendezvous. Tents and other camp equipments will be provided by the government.

All officers of your Brigade are commanded to aid and assist you in the prompt execution of these orders.

Wednesday, September 14th 1814.

A copy of the Governors General order of yesterday was this day transmitted to General Bloomfield, who was informed that this detachment intended for his district, will consist of upwards of two thousand men.

The President and Directors of the Philadelphia Bank having in a late communication signified explicitly their readiness at any time to aid the State with a loan to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars; and the exigencies of the State seeming now to require such aid, a letter was accordingly this day written to David Lenox Esquire, President of the Philadelphia Bank, asking of that institution a loan to the State of one hundred thousand dollars agreeably to the conditions of their charter.

Lieutenant Fox in his capacity of acting Deputy Quarter Master was this day authorised to issue rations to such detachments as may arrive at the encampment at and near the City Hospital until further orders, and also to procure the necessary Camp Kettles and Mess-pans.

A letter was written by the Governor to Brigadier General Bloomfield relative to the organization and march to Marcus Hook or such other place as the General may direct of the Troops or Volunteers now assembling at the City Hospital under the Governors orders of the 27th of August last, it being understood that no change in the organization of the Companies Battalions or Regiments is to take place and that they enjoy all the rights secured to them by the laws of the state under the faith of which they have volunteered their Service.

Thursday September 15th 1814.

Daniel Sharp Inspector of the Militia of the City of Philadelphia was instructed to recognize certain elections now holding for field officers in General Cadwalladers Brigade, and to return the same, so that Commissions may immediately issue; he was also instructed to purchase certain muskets from a Mr. Hinckle, the sale of which was intimated to him yesterday.

Certain questions contained in several resolutions of the General Committee of defence of the City of Philadelphia, copies of which were presented to the Governor yesterday—were this day answered by the Secretary of the Commonwealth in a letter as follows, written by the direction of the Governor.—Vizt:

Philadelphia, Septemr 15th 1814.

To questions contained in certain resolutions adopted by the General Committee of defence copies of which were presented to the Governor yesterday. I am instructed to answer.

1st. That there are not arms and equipments at the disposition of the Governor more than sufficient to supply the militia liable to, and called into actual service.

As regards ammunition there are ample materials and instructions have been given to have a sufficient quantity fixed, both by the Governor and General Bloomfield.

2nd. The Secretary at War, by letter dated the 4th instant, informed the Governor that he had ordered to be deposited at Carlisle 10,000 Stand of Arms, and equipments subject to his order; of this General Watson, who Commands the detachment at York was apprised by letter dated the 6th instant, but a letter from the Adjutant General, at that place, with the postmark of the 10th instant, the Governor is informed that the deposit had not then been made at Carlisle.

On the 9th a letter was addressed by the direction of the Governor to James Lamberton, Brigade Inspector at Carlisle directing him with all possible dispatch to forward to this place 5000 stand with the requisite equipment—this letter was sent by mail to Harrisburg, and from thence forwarded by express. No information has yet been received from Major Lamberton—he being a vigilant officer there can be no doubt of his immediate attention to the order, if the deposit has been made.

3^d. No answer has been received from the war department relative to the enlistment of a regular force for the defence of this district.

4th. With regard to calling out the whole body of Militia—the Governor holds it under advisement. The principal difficulty which presents itself on this question in the impracticability of immediately furnishing the necessary arms and equipments.

The letter of Daniel Hinkles relative to some muskets he has for sale, which the Committee sent to the Governor last evening, shall be immediately attended to.

The Regiment Commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Bache, will take up the line of march to Marcus hook to morrow morning at o'clock.

As the time for which the companies Commanded by Captains Creigh and Halbert (now attached to said regiment) who volunteered their services will shortly expire, they are not to march with the regiment unless they find it convenient to extend the term of their services.—The Governor is aware that suddenly leaving their homes they have made great personal sacrifices to defend their Country, and duly appreciates the patriotism they have manifested on the occasion, this consideration and the recollection of the great and important services lately rendered by the Militia of Cumberland County from whence they come, forbids him to ask pressingly from them any additional sacrifice—But as the privations and inconveniences of remaining longer in service must be greater to some individual than others; and the next object of the attack of the enemy unknown he would intimate, that the forming one Company out of both, and remaining in service three months, if necessary, with the regiment will be highly pleasing to him and heighten the claim they have to the gratitude of their Country.

Thursday October 13th 1814.

Major General Henry Scheetz was requested to assume the Command which was assigned to him yesterday by the Governor, and an order was taken that the State law prescribing the Cockade to be worn by the officers and men of the Militia of this State now in service be observed and enforced.

Saturday October 15th 1814.

General Orders were this day issued by the Governor as follows—to wit.

General Orders

Harrisburg, 15th October, 1814.

Four thousand militia, to consist of infantry and riflemen, having been required by the proper authority of the United States, for the service thereof, to rendezvous at a point hereafter to be designated, calculated equally to protect the City of Washington and Baltimore the governor orders and directs the inspector of the 1st Brigade of the 5th division, and the 2^d brigade of the 9th division, as numbered by the militia law, passed the 9th April 1807, to have the militia in their respective brigade (that were or ought to have been drafted, in pursuance of general orders of the 22^d July last and the Adjutant General detail thereto attached, agreeably to the presidents requisition of the 4th of the same month) notified agreeably to law, to assemble in brigade rendezvous and after an organization, as directed by a supplement to the said law of 1807, to march in a direction to the Patapsco.

Believing that the regular drafts which have or can be obtained from those brigades, will be considerably less than one half the number required, and as drafts cannot by law be made from any other brigades, the governor, in order to supply the deficiency, directs the inspectors of brigades, respectively in the 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th divisions, to order into service two Volunteer Companies that have not performed according to law a tour of duty, and if there be no such company in any of the said divisions, or not a number sufficient, he appeals to the patriotism of such companies within the brigades comprising the said divisions as have voluntarily served a tour, to march again at this perilous crisis, in defence of their Country. He is well aware of the hardships they have already sustained and of the privations they have suffered, in the present contest for the preservation of our national rights and independence; and as these invaluable blessings are still jeopardized, and unfortunately, from the defects of our present militia system a sufficient force cannot be coerced into service, he indulges for himself & for his Country the pleasing hope, that this appeal will not be made in vain.

No Cavalry being required, and as there is little expectation that many such volunteer corps will be called into service during the present contest, the governor fondly anticipates that the patriotism which prompted them to associate and tender their Services will induce some of them to seize the present occasion to march in the Capacity of infantry or riflemen.

It is desirable that each company consist of one hundred privates. To such Company one waggon will be allowed, and paid for by the United States. Every rifleman ought to bring with him his own rifle, powder-horn, pouch, screwdriver, wiper and bullet-moulds; which, if lost in service without neglect of the owner, will be paid for by the government at a reasonable valuation. The infantry, as far as practicable, ought also to be completely armed; and every man must come furnished with a blanket, knapsack and canteen. Exertions will however be made to furnish with knapsacks and canteens those who have not the means to do so themselves. Tents and other camp equipments will be provided by the government at the place of general rendezvous. The period of service will be six months, unless otherwise directed by the president of the United States.

It is confidently hoped that the patriotic feeling which has on similar occasions so honorably distinguished Pennsylvanians, will on this occasion prompt the wealthy to aid in the equipment of those who have not the means of providing themselves.

Simon Snyder, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg 15th October, 1814.

To Inspector of the Brigade Division, Pennsylvania Militia

Sir—You will proceed to execute the above order with all possible dispatch. Information will be given you in time, of the place of general rendezvous.

As tents cannot be supplied to brigade detachments, you will march the troops in such bodies as can be lodged in houses if a contractor for the U. S. for furnishing rations or any deputy lives convenient, you must give him notice to furnish the rations required for your detachment, if this cannot be done, you will supply the troops. Money to defray the expenses will be advanced to you at Harrisburg, on your order.

If this should not prove Convenient, a special messenger will be dispatched on your intimation, with such sum as you may deem necessary. So soon as you shall have ascertained the number of men that will march, it is required that you give immediate information thereof to me.

Saturday, December 10th 1814.

A Message from the Governor to both Houses of the Legislature was this day presented to the Speaker of each House by the Secretary of the Commonwealth giving to that body information of the State of the Commonwealth and recommending to their consideration certain measures.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Fellow Citizens,

Since the adjournment of the last legislature, events have occurred of a character more interesting and impressive than any to be found in our annals for the last thirty years. Nor has the history of the old world been less eventful or imposing

The extraordinary overturnings and raising up of thrones in Europe and the elevation and prostration of royal families, have been so wonderful, rapid and unexpected, as to excite our profoundest astonishment and most serious reflections. Our extensive commerce, Spirit of enterprise and Surplus productions, have so intermixed our interests with those of the nations of Europe, that even in a time of peace we could not have been indifferent or uninterested spectators of the mighty scenes which have passed before us. Involved however as we are in a just and unavoidable war with one of the most powerful nations of the world, we could not but mark with solicitude events which promised to relieve our enemy from all resistance and restraint elsewhere, and enable him to turn his whole force, resources and undivided attention upon us.

The enemy has availed himself of such a state of things, so far as to send considerable reinforcements of veteran troops to his North American possessions, and a large fleet and well appointed army to blockade our bays and rivers, and bombard destroy and lay waste all our assailable villages, towns and cities. This force, by a rapid movement, exposing itself to capture or destruction, penetrated to Washington City.

It was captured,¹ with attendant circumstances of barbarism which disgrace and render hateful the conquerors who thus outraged all the laws and usages of honorable warfare. The consternation which was excited on the sea board, is almost inconceivable to those who reside in the interior. Happily, however, for our Country and for human nature, it was the last triumph of barbarism arms. Discomfiture and disgrace have followed hard upon him ever since. At Baltimore the militia marched forth to meet the veterans of Britlan, the spirit of the revolution was roused, the invading army was compelled to retreat and the bombarding fleet to retire, and the mothers wives and children of the brave, once more slept in quiet.

The army of Niagara, under the dauntless General Brown, stayed the onward course of British troops, and by displays of consummate Skill and heroic bravery, taught them to do homage to American Soldiers. On Lake Champlain, the squadron of the gallant commodore Macdonough has conquered and captured anther fleet, again irradiated with glory our naval flag, and in conjunction with the army of the brave General McComb, has preserved the peace of an immense tract of country and shielded the inhabitants from the tomahawk of the savage.

Our small ships and privateers have covered the seas, and on the sea coast of the enemy they have been so vigilant and courageous, that it has become unsafe for him to pass even from one of his own ports to anther.

They have retaliated upon the enemy the system of capturing and destroying, to an extent greater than he could have imagined, and, as if in mock of the blockade, our vessels and their prizes have come in and run out at pleasure. Their skill, seamanship and valor, will carry our fame upon the wings of the wind and the waves of the waters, teach all nations to respect us, and acknowledge that, though patient and long suffering, we will neither be injured nor insulted with impunity.

The latest advices induce a belief in some minds, that peace may possibly result out of our mission to Europe; and that the thousands and tens of thousands of armed men who overspread its continent may again unsheath their swords, and again struggle for victory and dominion. Let the result of the negotiations at Ghent and Vienna be what it may, it is the part of wisdom and of patriotism to calculate upon and prepare for war, rather than peace. If honorable peace comes, come when it will, it will be welcome, and we shall always be prepared to receive it, but if we mistakingly repose on the prospect of peace, we may unpreparedly be awakened by the thunder of the enemy's cannon. In energy, decision and preparation, there is Safety and honor, but any other course will inevitably lead to suffering and disgrace. To you the representatives of the people, the people have a right to look, for the performance of all those extraordinary duties which the times impose upon you. The last summer has read us such a lesson as I trust we shall profit by; and should those ruthless invaders come again, they should find us every where prepared and resolute.

The Conflagration of Washington and the continued menacing language and attitude of the enemy having excited general anxiety and solicitude for the safety of Philadelphia, I repaired to that City, accompanied by the Secretary of the Commonwealth and State treasurer, whose presence and advice very much facilitated the objects of my journey; which were to get into the field, arm and equip, a force adequate to the defence of that City and the shores of the Delaware.

By unremitted attention, and acting in concert with the general Commanding for the United States in this district, such a force was obtained, notwithstanding considerable embarrassment caused by the almost exhausted condition of the United States Arsenal.

From an order by the war department, directing the generals of military districts to supply with equipments the militia called into service. I had inferred the camp equipage arms and munitions of war, were in store ready for delivery. I was mistaken, in consequence of large requisitions having been previously made from the south. These difficulties however, and many others, were surmounted, and so respectable a force encamped, as has probably contributed to deter the enemy from any attempt against the Capital of the State.

Whilst on this subject, I may be permitted to remark, that the various and important duties incumbent on the executive, which can only be discharged at the seat of government, where the records and state seals are kept, will not allow of his absence for long periods without great public inconvenience. It is therefore to be avoided. The exposure to invasion of the eastern and western sections of Pennsylvania, requires for their defence, that the earliest and most correct information of the situation of those parts of the state should be promptly conveyed to the executive by persons, in whose talents, integrity and devotion to the support of the governments of the State and United States, in all their lawful and constitutional measures, he can fully confide. I suggest the utility of authorising a Commission of such persons as well for the above specified purposes as for that of confidentially communicating and co-operating with the U. States commanding general of the district. The sanction of Legislative authority would give respectability to such a body, and their being appointed by and responsible to the government would ensure more confidence and be less liable to distrust or suspicion than an irregular or unauthorised association.

The militia of this state, now and lately in the field under requisitions from the president of the United States, turned out at their countrys call with a promptitude which reflects upon them signal honor. It was, particularly gratifying to observe that when danger was impending, many volunteer companies were formed, uniformed and officered in compliance with an invitation contained in general orders of the 27th August last. These corps, composed of the most respectable citizens, repared with a laudable zeal to Philadelphia, then considered in imminent danger; they were there organized into battallions and regiments, and officered, agreeably to the provisions of our militia law. It is much to be regretted that any portion of such companies, animated by honorable motives and intentions, and received into the United States, service under a special guarantee of the rights and privileges secured to them by the laws of Pennsylvania should have had their ardor damped, their harmony destroyed and their officers treated with disrespect, arrested and arraigned. It would be in vain to seek for any honorable or public spirited incentive to a proceeding, which, while it wounds the just pride of men of worth and courage, it essentially injures the public service.

It would be culpable, while thus doing justice to the merits of the militia of one section of the state, were I to omit stating to the legislature, the high sense I entertain of the patriotism and courage of those generous militia, who, without order or invitation, flew to arms and of their own good will, marched to Baltimore, and had the honor to aid in repelling the enemy. Such devotion to the public weal, if universal, would soon compel the enemy to abandon the system of marauding and depredating, upon which he has so uniformly acted.—While we acknowledge the high desert of those, who marched to the defence of the sea-board, let us not be unmindful of the brave Pennsylvania Militia, who, at the battles of Chippewa and Bridgewater, gloriously redeemed the honor, which had been compromised on the shores of the Niagara.

This regiment, having faithfully performed its tour of duty, was honored by the thanks of the commanding general. They deserve well of their state and their country.

Although the laudable enterprize and emulation of our fellow citizen has hitherto, in great measure, supplied the many defects of our Militia law, yet so numerous and obvious are its imperfections, that to apportion equally upon all, the burthens caused by the war, an entire revision of the system is indispensable. One of its Sections, Commanding militia officers, of certain grades, to communicate to the legislature the defects they may discover and a persuasion that much information has been collected in the summer, by gentlemen of the Legislature, I shall not attempt to detail the errors and contradictions of the law. I will, however, take occasion to remark, that there is in Pennsylvania an over proportion of cavalry. It is ascertained, that for service they are not in demand, except as videttes. None have been required by the general government.

It follows that a horseman and an exempt are, in our militia law, almost synonymous. I recommend that rifle and artillery corps be promoted and cherished; they are believed to be the best defence of our Country; and it is presumed that experience has demonstrated that our sharpshooters and gunners are equal to any in the world.

Uniform certainly produces a most valuable effect in our militia, as it never fails to excite a portion of soldierly pride. When well appointed volunteer corps and non-uniformed militia companies are encamped together, or meet on parade, the one is apt to feel envy, and the other to shew contempt. These and other considerations induce me to suggest the uniforming of the militia at the public expense, when called into actual service.

The expense of a cheap uniform, and a provision for the family of the poor man, who endangers health and life, without any other state in the public cause than his personal political and religious liberty, would be a tax which should be willingly paid by the opulent. If this scheme be deemed ineligible I suggest that the promise of the state to defray the price of the uniform, to every man who performs faithfully a full tour of duty, would probably be inducement, sufficiently strong, for the militia to uniform themselves.

That a well organized and well disciplined militia in the truest safe-guard of the republic, I am firmly convinced; yet when we are at war with a vigilant and veteran enemy, who, with his numerous fleets, Commands our bays and rivers, by facility of transportation excites constant alarms, and makes necessary the Stationing of forces at all exposed places; when we take into consideration the great sacrifices made by individuals and the injury to the state by the interruption of the labor of farmers, mechanics and manufacturers, that is occasioned by frequent calls upon the militia; when the enormous expense caused thereby, and the time lost in marching them from distant places and in training them for service, are also considered, I cannot but deem it my duty to recommend the raising, immediately, a few regiments to serve during the war for the defence of the state. Such a permanent, well disciplined force, supported and reinforced as occasion might require by drafted or volunteer militia, would prove economical preserve many valuable lives, prevent individual distress and public loss, and add much to the security of the country. I would call your attention to the establishment of a medical department as essential to the health of the troops, and will take occasion also to remark, that the duties imposed on the adjutant General are so important, various and diffuse that it is impossible, particularly in a state of war, for any individual to perform them.

Amongst the munitions of war provided for our militia, of which a detailed account will be furnished in the Adjutants Generals report, will be found tents sufficient to cover more than seventeen thousand men, and a large quantity of other camp equipments. A thousand rifles have been received out of the United States arsenal and repaired at the expense of the State, and three hundred and sixty new ones have been purchased. These arms, with nearly eight thousand muskets, received from the United States as part of the quota of Pennsylvania, under an act of Congress for arming the whole militia added to the state arms repaired and repairing, and a respectable park of Artillery, will arm a force sufficient, under Providence, to repel any army the enemy may land. There is now in the state Arsenal, in the city of Philadelphia, much valuable property. The discharge of the militia now and lately in the service of the United States, will considerably increase it. The care of the arsenal ought to be confided to some person of known integrity, who might also superintend the safe keeping and repairing of the public arms.

Some disbursements may have been made not in the contemplation of the last legislature; such as the purchase of blankets and warm clothing for those of our volunteers and militia, who left home in the summer and were to continue in the field in very severe weather and had not the means nor the opportunities to provide for themselves. These articles were tendered for so much as they cost, and so accepted by the receiver on account of his pay: the health and comfort of the men could only by such a measure be secured. I trust therefore, that this act and an advance of money to contractors, to furnish provisions for our troops, hastily collected for the defence of Philadelphia and the shores of the Delaware, will meet the approbation of an enlightened legislature. As many if not all of the men, furnished with blankets and Clothing, are poor and have families to maintain by their daily labor, it would be an act of kindness, if not a justice, to relieve them from the condition on which those articles were furnished. The sum expended amounts not to more than $11,624.63.

Under a law passed the 25th February last, a loan was obtained from the Philadelphia bank of $100,000 before the rising of the last Legislature to replenish the treasury, which had been exhausted by the extraordinary expenses at Erie and by the purchase of munitions of war there and elsewhere. The receipts of the Commonwealth, however, proving adequate on the 9th of August last to a repayment, and deeming the anticipated receipts as sufficient to meet any probable demands on the treasury, I ordered a repayment of the loan connecting with the act the expression of a wish, that the bank, if required, would again aid the government. In the autumn an application was made, and that institution, very honorably, at the rate of interest prescribed, in its charter, relented to the state $100,000. The hostile attitude maintained by our enemy on our sea-board, and the peculiar situation of the general government, required the application of the resources of the commonwealth, to provide the necessary means of defence. Heavy expenses were necessarily incurred, which, together with large demands lately made, under the act, entitled "An act for the improvement of the State," made additional loans necessary: a general account of which and of other matters, relative to the financial concerns of the State reported to me, accompanies this communication. This, and a more detailed account, hereafter to be exhibited, embracing also the accounts of the Adjutant General and his deputies, and of payments made to Pennsylvania militia in the service of the United States, will be such an exhibition of our finances, as will satisfactorily shew the necessity of the loans and the faithful and economical appropriation of the public monies, and induce the legislature to adopt measures for replenishing the public treasury, and providing against the want of future loans. It is gratifying to know that our resources are abundant and untouched.

Heretofore, to express my opinion against an increase of banking institutions, has been a painful duty. That bank paper has been too much multiplied, is now generally admitted; but, inasmuch as it exists under the guarantee of legislative acts, and as much of the property of the State as well as of individuals is involved, it is incumbent to protect the Banks so far as justice and the Constitution will permit.

By the purchase of British government bills and British goods smuggled into our country and through other means adopted by enemy partizans, such immense sums of gold and silver have been drawn from the banks of the middle and southern states to the eastward and thence into the coffers of the enemy, as has made it necessary for most of our banks to stop specie payments. This precautionary measure I have learned has produced a threat of a suit at law being commenced against one of the banks. Should this be realized and judgment and execution follow, the presumption is, that a similar fate awaits the other banks; thus the whole system would become shaken, and the state and individuals be seriously embarrassed. Fully aware of the delicacy of this subject yet satisfied that it demands legislative interference, I submit it to your judgments to make such provision as the interest of the Commonwealth and the welfare of the community require.

Although multifarious and interesting subjects arising out of the peculiar situation of our Country will occupy much of your attentions, it is hoped the importance of education and diffusion of knowledge, the encouragement and fostering of manufactures, as the principal mean to perpetuate the real and practical independence of our Country, will have a share of your deliberations, as will also the report of the Attorney General on the subject of Criminal jurisprudence.

The suppression of that baleful and demoralizing practice, horse-racing and its concomitant vice, gambling, the regulation and equalization of tavern licenses; certain suggestions relative as well to the sale of unseated lands for taxes, as to the arbitration system; to the frequent setting aside verdicts of juries, to larcenies committed without the state; to the inefficiency of the writ of habeas corpus; to the frequent petition for pardon urging the want of employment for convicts as the ground for the application; to the want of a court of revision in Capital Cases, are subjects, some of them, if not all, of much interest, which in a communication dated the 10th December 1813,

I had submitted to the consideration of the last legislature, but from the great press of more important business it is presumed were passed over. I beg leave to submit them again, and for motive and object to refer the legislature to that communication.

At a period so eventful as the present it cannot too often be inculcated that the integrity freedom and happiness of our Country eminently depends on the energy and wisdom of those who administer the national government, and the confidence which the people shall manifest in them as well as in the support which that government receives from the several states composing the union. In proportion as these truths are felt and acknowledged, will be the regret you will feel, as Citizens and legislators, at the undisguised hostility, which is manifested in the eastern Section of the union, against the measures adopted or proposed for the preservation of our rights, national and individual rights which the God of nature has bountifully bestowed upon us, and the enjoyment of which is inseparable from our existence as an independent nation. This conduct is the more justly offensive, inasmuch as the ground taken for hostility is produced by those opponents of the government who withhold as much as in them lies, men, money, credit, confidence and affection, in a word, all means vigorously to conduct the war and honorably attain peace. These men no longer in private whisper their Schemes but in public legislative debate and acts, avow their intention to sever the Union.

These are events deeply to be deplored by every friend to freedom and humanity, as preludes to a civil war, the most unprofitable, disastrous and sanguinary of all conflicts.

However we may regret or disapprove of such unnatural and unjustifiable dispositions and deportment, we are not now called upon to legislate or act upon them, if we were. I am sure the constituted authorities and people of Pennsylvania would unitedly rally round the Standard of the union and put down the machinations of all disorganizers, and execute the laws upon all traitors who should dare to take up arms against our happy union and set at naught the constitution, which is hallowed by the name of the immortal Washington.

The situation of our country is perilous, but by no means desperate. Our cause is just, our resources great, our fellow citizens brave, intelligent and patriotic; it is only necessary that the competent authority shall bring them into action, and our Country will, by the blessing of Heaven, ride triumphantly through the Storm. It will be my pride and pleasure to co-operate with you in every measure which shall promise to promote the happiness of our Constituents and our Country.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Having mentioned in my communication to the General Assembly of the 10th instant, the loan made to state on the 9th day of March last, by the Philadelphia bank, at 5 per cent. interest, under an Act passed the 25th of February last, entitled "An Act authorising the Governor to negotiate a loan for the use of the Commonwealth," and the repayment thereof with interest, on the 17th day of August; it now remains for me to state, than in addition to a reloan by the said bank of $100,000, made to the state on the 17th September last, adverted to also in my said communication, another loan was negotiated of $100,000, with several of the banks in Philadelphia, $50,000 whereof were obtained on the 9th day of November, from the Bank of Pennsylvania. From the bank of North America there were, on the same day obtained $25,000 and from the Farmers and Mechanics Bank were obtained $25,000, on the 22nd day of the same month, on the terms specified in the said Act. Subsequently, the exigencies of the State requiring it, and an additional loan of $100,000 was ordered to be negotiated, and I am advised, that the Bank of Pennsylvania has agreed to loan $25,000 and that on the 5th instant, that sum was placed on the books of the institution to the credit of the state, and subject to the order of the treasurer of the Commonwealth. Other banks have been applied to, but in consequence of the one bank declining, and another offering to loan a sum, indefinite as to amount, the Commonwealth is not at this time pledged for the payment of more than $225,000. Whatever may be the result finally shall be immediately, communicated to the Legislature.

A Message from the Governor was this day presented to both houses of the Legislature by the Secretary of the Commonwealth communicating Sundry documents for the information and consideration of the Legislature—to wit:—

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,

Agreeably to the provisions of the Act entitled, "An act directing an enquiry into the right and authority of the Erie and Waterford Turnpike road Company, to demand and receive tolls: passed 28th March, 1814, I appointed three disinterested persons commissioners to view said road. A copy of the Commission to them and their report of the condition of said road, I herewith transmit, which, with the report made under the original act by viewers appointed by my predecessor, is all the official information I possess respecting the same.

Authentic copies of a resolution by the last Legislature, contemplating the reduction of the period for Senators to serve in the Congress of the United States, from six to four years have been transmitted, one to each Senator and representative in Congress from this State, and one to each Governor of the other states, with a request that the same might be by them laid before the Legislatures of their respective States.

The Governors of the States of Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts have transmitted to me the results respectively of the submission of the said resolution to the Legislatures of these states, copies of which and of the letters accompanying them I herewith transmit.

The ingenious Eric Bollman of Philadelphia, has written me a letter, describing, in some degree, the properties of the late discovered indestructible metal, platina suggesting the infallibility of weights and measures if constructed thereof. This important subject having heretofore engaged the attention of the Legislature, I have deemed it my duty to lay before you copies of his letter and specimens of the ore, and platina in its malleable state, both of which accompanied his letter. A copy also of my letter is transmitted.

On the 29th March last I received by mail a law, passed by the Legislature of Maryland, re-enacting a law passed by the General Assembly of this state, entitled "An Act to incorporate a company for making an artificial road from the Philadelphia and Lancaster turnpike road through the village of Strasburg, in Lancaster County, to the Susquehanna bridge, at McCalls ferry, and from thence to the City of Baltimore," which remains among the rolls of this office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and is also printed with the pamphlet laws of last session.

I have also to inform the Legislature, that I have re-appointed Nathaniel B. Boileau Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Accompanying the Governors Message.

Philadelphia, April 2^d 1814. (sic)

Sir—By the ninth Section of the "Act to incorporate the Subscribers to the bank of Pennsylvania, it is made the duty of dissenting directors under certain circumstances to give notice to the Governor of the State of the facts which induced their dissent to the proceedings of the board. The peculiar circumstances under which such notice is required do not cause this communication; but when I consider that the State owns three fifth of the Capital of the bank, are entitled to so large a proportion of its profits and that I am one of a small number of directors chosen by the Legislature, I cannot but regard the proceedings to which I allude as of such a character as makes it my duty to apprise you of what has been done, that you may direct such order therein as you may deem adviseable. I accompany this letter with a copy of a protest, which I have by permission of Board of Directors, had entered on their minute book. The protest however, will give but a very imperfect view of the subject; yet without devoting more time than at present I deem necessary or expedient, I know not how more Satisfactory to advise you of the facts and circumstances which have led to the protest.

I am fully aware of the consequences and responsibility of the steps I have taken and am taking, and I am ready and willing to meet them, in the Conviction that the interests of the Commonwealth and the bank impose them as duties.

I am, Sir, Very respectfully

Simon Snyder,
Governor of Pennsylvania.

Yours,

John Binns.

A Sincere deference for the judgment and integrity of a majority of this board, and much personal respect for the individuals composing it, make it a painful duty to the subscriber to dissent from them in opinion, but a still more painful one to make his dissent and the reasons therefor a matter of record on their minutes.

Nothing could induce him so to do but a clear conviction that his duty to the institution and to those who elected him imperiously claim such a course of conduct. In performing this duty he will be as brief as is consistent with clearness, and sedulously avoid any observations likely to wound the feelings, or in the slightest degree attain the purity of Character of any individual. It is also the intention of the subscriber explicitly to avow, that it is solely to justify himself, and not to impeach any other, that he desires this protest may be entered on the minutes of the board of directors.

The protests against the Vote of the board of this day, (by which the sum of $6514.11 carried by the Cashier to his private account, is justified) for the following among other reasons:

I. Because, on the 1st January 1812, the Salary of the Cashier was raised $500. per annum, in consequence, as the report of the committee states, of additional duties which had devolved on him by the bank of Pennsylvania having become one of the banks at which the fiscal operations of the Government of the United States are Conducted.

II. Because, a member of the Committee who reported in favor of such an increase of the cashiers salary, as makes it $4000 a year, declares that certain items of profit. arising out of the business of the bank, and influenced his judgment to report in favor of the proposed increase of Salary; yet, these very items have since been transferred to the private account of the Cashier.

III. Because, whatever construction may be given to the resolution adopted by the board on the eighth day of August, 1812, and however it may be supposed to avail in appropriating Commissions which may have been received subsequent to its adoption it ought not to be made a pretext for transferring monies previously received and previously placed to another account.

IV. Because on the 29th July, 1812, the board declined adopting, and on the 8th of August 1812, postponed generally, the report of a Committee authorising the cashier to do certain business for the Secretary of the treasury, and appropriate the proceeds to his own private purposes.

V. Because, in all proceedings of the board, as recorded upon their minutes, there is not a single syllable expressly authorizing the Cashier to receive any emoluments from the Secretary of the treasury; or any other person or persons, other than the board of directors, whose duty it is, by the act of incorporation, to make him, and all other officers of the bank such compensation for their services as shall be reasonable.

VI. Because, in all the correspondence between this institution and the Secretary of the Treasury, it is the bank, and not the cashier that is pledged to do all in its power to facilitate the fiscal operations of the Government; and in as much as the bank was so pledged and thus assumed the responsibility, it was entitled to all the emoluments which should arise out of the connection, and therefore, the $6514.11 which by the vote of the board is given to the cashier, ought to be carried to the credit of the bank.

VII. Because, the interests of the institution require, and its act of incorporation contemplates, that the whole time of the cashier should be given to the duties of his office, and not directed to any other pursuit whatever; but more especially, that he should not be placed in any situation where his private interests and oath of office may, by any possible chance, come in contact. The strength of this obligation is particularly manifested by the proceedings of the board of directors, at the close of the year 1798; when they, in consequence of the then president, cashier and many other officers of the bank, having overdrawn the bank to the amount of near $200,000 the board resolved that no clerk should be even permitted to keep an account with the bank.

VIII. Because, the act of incorporation expressly declares that the cashier shall not be allowed to carry on any other business than that of the bank; whereas by the adoption of the report of the Committee this day, the board not only permit but justify his carrying on other business and appropriating the proceeds to his own private account.

IX. Because, it is apprehended that any vote of the board authorizing the cashier to carry on any other business than that of the bank, would be contrary to an express provision of the act of Assembly, and would endanger the Charter of the Corporation; and that if the Cashier were to act under such an authority, and carry on any other business than that of the bank, it is believed he would subject himself to the penalty of $5000 under the prohibition in the XVIII article of the 7th section of the act of incorporation.

A Proclamation.

In compliance with a resolution of the General Assembly, and under the influence, I trust, of proper feeling, I recommend to my fellow citizens of Pennsylvania, the Second Thursday in April next, as a day of thanksgiving and acknowledgment to Almighty God, for the manifold blessings he has so bountifully bestowed upon us, particularly for the recent proof of his interposition to save from destruction, the fairest fabric of National freedom now extant, founded on the eternal and immutable rules of right implanted into original, uncorrupted nature, and ever fostered by his Almighty hand.

That in our religious assemblies, Solemnly, and with Christian humbleness, we supplicate him, the giver of all good, to diffuse amongst us a spirit of gratitude towards himself, and of Charity and forgiveness towards all our public and private enemies: And that, owing as we do, all that is endearing to man, to his protecting hand he would vouchsafe that our beloved country may remain a sure assylum for the oppressed of all nations and perpetuate our happy political and religious institutions, and in due time diffuse throughout the earth, the spirit of his grace, and the true ennobling rights and privileges originally intended by him for the government of the great family of mankind.

Given under my hand and the great Seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this thirteenth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and fifteen and of the Commonwealth the thirtyninth.

In conformity with a resolution by the Legislature of this state, dated the eleventh instant, the Governor this day transmitted to each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress, and to each of the Executives of the Union the result from a submission to that assembly of certain propositions by the Legislatures of Connecticut and Massachusetts for amending the Constitution of the United States—as follows to wit:—

The Committee to whom were referred two Communications from the Governors of Connecticut and Massachusetts, inclosing certain amendments to the Constitution of the United States: Report—

That they have given to the proposed amendments the mature consideration to which they are entitled, no less from their intrinsic importance, than from the great national crisis in which they were originally projected. As the Amendments, moreover embrace several very essential alterations in the political Charter of the Union, and as the Committee will be obliged to offer a reluctant dissent to all of them, it will not be superfluous to explain somewhat in detail the reasons of their decision. In the propriety of this Course they acquiesce with less reluctance, since whatever may be thought of the conduct of this state in thus re-examining the foundations of the public liberty, she may at least claim the privilege of giving an impartial opinion on them. The amendments, as far as they affect local interests, relate chiefly to the slave representation, the creation of new states, the restraints on commerce, and the restriction by geographical boundaries, of the choice of the president. Pennsylvania has scarcely any slaves, she is at once agricultural as well as Commercial, her relative importance can be but little affected by the addition of new states, and during the whole history of her connexion with the union, content with fulfilling all her duties to it, she has neither Claimed nor Courted the elevation of any of her Citizens to the chief magistracy, she may therefore confidently appeal to her history and her situation to vindicate her from the suspicion of yielding up her judgment to the influence of interested motives.

The first amendment is in these words: "Representatives and direct taxes" "shall be apportioned among the Several states which may be included within this union" according to their respective number of free persons, including those bound to service for a "term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, and all other persons".

The object of this amendment is to exclude from the list of inhabitants Conferring the right of representation three fifths of the slaves within the Union. It cannot be concealed, that this subject is surrounded by difficulties, and originally presented important obstacles to the Union. It was contended then, as it is still asserted, that this unhappy race of beings, degraded alike by intellect and condition could not be considered above the animals which labored by their side—that they were not admitted by their owners to any share of political power in the states where they resided:—that they could not therefore with propriety be intruded into any participation of power, with freemen—that in short they should be regarded as property, not as persons.

It was then answered as it may still be argued that the states not burdened with this species of inhabitants, the states which had always professed to regard slaves as men whose bondage was oppression should not be the first to degrade them to the rank of mere cattle,—that the general principle of the confederation was, to apportion representatives among the states according to inhabitants, that if the southern states choose to give their slaves the privilege of voting or placed them on the footing of bound servants, they would be entitled to representation according to their full numbers:—and that the refusal to their slaves of that privilege was like the qualification of property required in some other states, a mere municipal regulation with which the Union had no concern. This reasoning satisfied the framers of the Constitution. They thought wisely, that slaves were to be considered partly as property, and partly as persons; and that it would be unjust to condemn their owners to taxation on their account, without some indemnity. They therefore compromised the conflicting opinions. They agreed to consider the slaves as men, but as men whose value the loss of freedom had depreciated, and mingling the hopes of power with the chances of taxation they decided, that three fifths only of these unfortunate beings should enter into the computation of representatives.

Nearly thirty years have elapsed since this arrangement received the Sanction of the statesmen of that day. It is now proposed to change it. The great object of enquiry therefore should be, whether in the progress of time, this Compact which then seemed fair and equal has disappointed the hopes or violated the rights or wounded the interest of one of the parties.

Now it does not appear that either the slaves or the slave representation has increased in a proportion unexpected or oppressive. The black population now does not bear a greater proportion to the white than it did in 1790, on the contrary the number of slaves and of Course the power they confer is actually decreasing in proportion to the white.

In 1790 the slaves were 697,697 out of 3,929,326 more than a fifth of the whole population, in 1810 they were 1,191,364 out of 7,239,903, not quite a sixth, and the decrease must soon be greater as the importation of slaves which was allowed during eighteen years of this period is now prohibited.

Among the slave holding states themselves, the progress of the black and white population has been steady and equal. The census of 1790 gave to the states of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, (including Kentucky) North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia, 653,910 Slaves out of 1,916,481 inhabitants, being 45,000 more than a third. The census of 1800, gave to the same states and Tennessee, (then first enumerated separately 853,801 slaves out of 2,613,057 inhabitants, 41,000 less than a third. The census of 1810, gave to the same states, including Orleans 1,138,290 out of 3,395,684, 19,000, more than a third. It would not seem therefore that the slaves have increased either as respects the Union at large, or the white population of the slave holding states themselves, with so disproportionate a rapidity as to derange the balance of power established by the Constitution.

This may be seen by comparing the relative strength of the representation caused by the slaves. The 697,697 slaves of 1790 furnished according to the ratio of one representative to 33,000 of three fifths of them twelve representatives out of one hundred and six, the whole number of members of Congress. The 896,849 of 1800, by the same ratio furnished 16 out of 142.—and the 1,138,260 (the number of represented slaves now) at the rate of 35,000, to a representative furnishes 19 out of 182, which proves a gradual decline in the comparative representation of slaves. The slave holding states have moreover advanced, even their white population, in a greater ratio than many of the States of the north. During the 20 years from 1790 to 1810, Massachusetts had not added one fourth to her population. Rhode Island not one eighth, Connecticut not one tenth, whilst during the same period the white population of Maryland has increased as rapidly as that of Massachusetts, the population of Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina more rapidly. Georgia has nearly trebled her white population. Kentucky has increased hers five fold, and That of Tennessee has augmented even within ten years to more than double. From these facts it would appear that the slave representation does not seem likely to grow into disproportioned magnitude, nor has any influence or power been annexed to it greater than must have been originally contemplated.

In examining however, the question of the comparative influence of the states, it should not be dissembled that the power communicated by the slave representation is in a very great degree counter balanced in favor of the states, to whom that representation is most offensive, by other advantages from a different source. The efficient power of any state in the union, does not depend on the number of its representatives in one branch of Congress; it is compounded of the number of these representatives and the number of its senators; nor can any true estimate of the relative importance of the states be formed if this prominent consideration be overlooked. The Senate is in fact the principal depository of the national power. An integral branch of the legislature, none of the most ordinary acts of government can be performed without its consent; the high court of impeachment it exercises the authority of a supreme Judicial tribunal. The treaty making power is there no officer can be appointed without its consent, and so far are these privileges from being merely nominal, that we have seen that body reject the nominations of the president, refuse to ratify articles of a foreign treaty and deny its assent to laws recommended by the president, and passed by the other branch of the legislature. The best test of power therefore is in the Senate, and it is there that the complaining states actually enjoy an ample indemnity for all the inequalities in their representation. The committee reluctantly advert to a topic of so much delicacy, but since they have been tempted into the discussion by the complaints of other states, they cannot disguise their conviction, that the true sufferers in the confederacy, those who alone have cause to lament the disproportion between their strength and their power, are the large middle-states.

The theory of state of sovereignty has assigned to each an equal power in the Senate; but in practical legislation the exercise of that power is in the highest degree unequal. The state of Connecticut, of Vermont, or of New Hampshire, for instance does not possess one third of the population of New York or Pennsylvania, yet they have each a voice in the Senate equal to that of these States. For every inhabitant of Rhode Island there are more than ten in Pennsylvania, and more than twelve in New York, Yet in all that concerns the commerce the agriculture, the whole destinies of New York and Pennsylvania, the 76,000 People of Rhode Island have an equal voice with the 959,000 of New York or the 810,000 of Pennsylvania. New York and Pennsylvania contain about 300,000 inhabitants more than all the five states east of the North River yet those states have no less than 10 voices in the Senate, while New York and Pennsylvania have together only four. Compared with the slave holding states this disparity though less striking is sufficiently obvious, Virginia has a white population equal to that of Connecticut Rhode Island and New Hampshire, yet her two voices in the Senate are overpowered by those of six senators from those states. The five Southern States Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia contain 132,000 white inhabitants more than the five northern states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire and Vermont, besides nearly one million of black inhabitants; yet their power in the Senate is the Same. Thus if the 392,000 slaves of Virginia give her six representatives more than Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, that is six voices more out of 182, those three states have in the Senate four more voices than an equal white population in Virginia, that is four more voices out of thirty six. Where they lose a thirtieth therefore in one house, they gain a ninth in the more important branch of the legislature. So too, the five states east of the North river, containing little more than a fifth of the whole inhabitants of the Union, and not a fourth of the white inhabitants has a power in the Senate actually greater than one fourth.

The Northern states have besides another counterpoise for the disproportionate advancement of their neighbors. The other states are in a very considerable degree indebted for the increase of people to the constant emigration from New England, and in their new stations, the intelligence and activity of these emigrants ensure them a rapid promotion to places of power, to which they cannot fail to carry a filial attachment and regard for the interests of their parent state. Thus, it is understood that in the last Congress nine out of Seventeen of the representatives of New York were natives of Connecticut, in the present Congress also nine of the representatives of New York are natives of Connecticut and a great number of the members of Congress from the middle and western states are emigrants from the northern, whose early associations will give them a natural and honorable respect for the land of their nativity.

From these considerations, the committee conclude, that if any change in the fundamental principle of representation be desirable, it should be a complete one, such a one as would place the real power of the government, on the basis of its white population, and render the number not merely of Representatives but of Senators proportioned to the free white inhabitants within the Union. Any alteration less than this, would be only partial in its operation, and would vary the terms of the original compact without carrying into full and fair operation the new principle introduced into it. The committee, therefore, dissent from the proposed amendment.

The next amendment is in these words: "No new state shall be admitted into the Union by congress, in virtue of the power granted by the Constitution, without the Concurrence of two thirds of both houses."

The erection of new states seems to have been contemplated at every period of our Union. In the constitution of 1778, Canada was invited to accede to the confederation and in the existing constitution of 1787 it is declared that "new states shall be admitted into the Union" without any qualification accept the previous consent of the parties, where the new were created within the limits of old states. Several states of that description have since been erected, but the principle object on which the constitution provision has now to operate is the vacant territory within the limits of the United States, which by the existing laws are entitled to admission on certain specified terms. The right as well as the justice of varying those terms are equally doubtful. First as to the right. By the ordinance of 1787, it is conceded to the inhabitants N. W. of the Ohio that not less than three nor more than five states shall be erected within their limits, and that whenever any one of those states had 60,000 free inhabitants they should be admitted into the Union on the same footing as the original states. It was moreover stipulated, that "as far as it can be consistent with the general interest of the confederacy, such admission shall be allowed when there may be a less number of free inhabitants in the State than 60,000." This agreement is introduced by the following Emphatic declaration. It is hereby ordained and declared by the authority aforesaid, that the following articles shall be considered as articles of Compact between the original states and the people and states in the said territory, and forever remain unalterable except by common consent." With regard to the States thus designated it is no longer in the power of congress to prescribe new terms of admission.

To other parts of the vacant territory of the United States the same obstacles of binding stipulation may not apply, but the general principle of allowing to the new states a share of power correspondent to their growing wealth and population seems fair and reasonable. New states can be hereafter formed only of American territory and American population. of land already in our possession or to be hereafter acquired and of people emigrants from other parts of the Union. Is it then wise to close against those who have retired to the wilderness, and through whose exertions the cultivation, the wealth and the power of the whole nation is incalculably augmented. It is wise to deny them as they emerge from poverty to opulence a share in governing the fruits of their own industry. Is it just to deny to an American citizen his birth right of political power, because he removes from the eastern to the western section of the Union. Or, is it not at once a more liberal and judicious policy to suffer their political importance to expand, as their territory ripens in population and improvement.

The progress of our history has not taught us to apprehend, danger from this source. Since the adoption of the constitution five new States have been admitted into the Union, one in the north, Vermont,—one in the south, Louisiana—Three in the west, Kentucky, Ohio, and Tennessee. The first has since her admission increased more rapidly than any of the northern states and is now the third in rank of the five. Kentucky is more populous in white than any northern state except Massachusetts or any southern state except Virginia.

Tennessee and Ohio have equal population with the greater part of the southern and northern states, it will no doubt at the next census exceed nearly all of them, Louisiana from its recent occupation by the United States has a population about equal to Rhode Island or Delaware, but its progress is much more rapid and we may safely calculate that in a few years its population will equal that of the greater part of the states in the Union. From this review, it appears that no particular section of country has been a gainer by the admission of new states beyond their fair claim by population, and that the privilege of forming them has been accorded indiscriminately to all in proportion as their powers have been developed. The committee therefore cannot recommend the adoption of this amendment.

By the next amendment it is proposed, that "Congress shall not have power to lay any embargo on the ships or vessels of the citizens of the United States in the ports or harbors thereof, for more than sixty days."

The Committee can see little in the principle of the proposal to recommend it, and they foresee in practice very serious inconveniences from it. In most other nations an embargo is principally used as a temporary detention to conceal or to facilitate the departure of some expedition; but in addition to these causes, our peculiar situation gives to such a measure a character of defensive war, as well as of offensive hostility. An embargo may here be imposed as a preliminary to war, for the purpose of retaining at home resources which might fall into the hands of adversaries, and of warning our citizens to seek shelter from impending hostilities. This country too stands in a relation to the world which no other nation occupies. The United States is a great granary from which many other countries are supplied, and some have been occasionally fed. To withhold for a time those necessary supplies from a nation committing aggressions against us, is a measure of fair, obvious and effectual hostility, by which the offending nation may be reclaimed to a just course of conduct. Such a measure should therefor be left with the other incidents of war to the discretion of congress. But it is obvious that the efficacy of an embargo may depend on its duration. Approaching hostilities may not be averted or determined in sixty days. Within sixty days a refusal to furnish supplies may be productive of no inconvenience to an enemy. If it be said the embargo may be renewed why the necessity of any limitation of time, since the same power which can renew a limited, may repeal an unqualified embargo when circumstances require it. But during the long recess of congress it would be impracticable to renew an embargo every sixty days. The more judicious plan seems to be to trust the power where it now is;—and this the more willingly, as our recent experience will have furnished the means of ascertaining the nature and the value of that species of restriction.

The fourth amendment states, that "Congress shall not have power without the concurrence of two-thirds of both houses, to interdict the Commercial intercourse between the United States and any foreign nation or the dependencies thereof."

The power of regulating intercourse with foreign nations, is so inherent and inseperable an incident of the sovereignty of the Union that it cannot be taken from it without impairing its most important functions. A majority of congress have now, and would have even after the adoption of this amendment, the right of "regulating commerce with foreign nations, they have a right by enormous duties on foreign merchandise by imposition on foreign ships, by the various devices of commercial legislation, to establish a virtual interdict between us and foreign nations. It is not perceived therefore, that anything would be gained by requiring two-thirds to do nominally what a majority may do actually, and even the little thus gained from the sovereignty of the Union would be not only without use, but actually injurious, by weakening some of the most essential and valuable powers of a well organized government.

The next proposal is, that "Congress shall not make or declare war, or authorise acts of hostility against any foreign nation, without the concurrence of two-thirds of both houses of Congress, except such acts of hostility be in defence of the territories of the United States when 'Actually invaded.'"

To the adoption of this amendment insuperable objections present themselves. In the first place its tendency like that of the two preceding amendments, is to enfeeble the national government. Now there is no principle of our political system which the experience of our own as well as of other nations has more emphatically recommended than this, that the maintenance of the general government in the full exercise of its constitutional powers is vital to the freedom and the greatness of this nation. The federal Constitution was established amidst the collisions of conflicting sovereignties, its powers were conceded reluctantly and warily by the jealousy of surrounding states whose prophetic suspicion saw in it the embryo of usurpation and tyranny. None of these anticipations have been realized. The dangers to public liberty are, it is conceived, much greater from the states themselves than from the Union, and our whole political course is a standing admonition to the American statesman to protect at all times and at all hazards the national government from the Jealousy of discontented states, and the fatal influence of sectional and local preponderance.

At such a season as this, therefore, it seems unwise to strip the government of the Union of its highest prerogatives, to trammel it with restrictions and to expose it to partial and local influences; for Secondly, it is impossible to regard the amendment in any other light than as subjecting the majority of the nation to the dominion of a very small minority. The basis of our whole government is, that the clear ascertained voice of the majority must be obeyed—a perfectly fair and just principle. The only cases in which the Constitution has varied from that principle, are the requisition of two-thirds of both houses to counterbalance the negative of the president—the requisition of two-thirds of the senate to ratify treaties, where, as one branch of the legislature has no voice, a greater number of the other should sanction what is to become a law of the land—and the requisition of two-thirds of the Senators in impeachments, a provision like the unanimity of a jury on the side of mercy.

But it is wholly repugnant to our institutions, that an ordinary act of legislation like a declaration of war, or the restriction of intercourse with foreign nations should depend not on the will of a majority, but in fact of a minority. Such an arrangement would leave the whole nation completely at the mercy of a small minority, representing perhaps the least populous part of the Union. Suppose, for instance, such a measure recommended by the president, and passed by two thirds of the house of Representatives.

On the floor of the Senate, if the members from Rhode Island, Vermont, N. Hampshire, Delaware, Georgia and Louisiana combined, the law would be defeated; that is, the representatives of a white population of 766,786 Souls, a population less than that of New York alone, or Pennsylvania alone, would have the power of controlling the whole union; the representatives of 910,959 Souls would govern the fate of 7,239,903:—about one seventh part of the Union would thus be made completely masters of the whole.

In the next place, the restriction proposed, could not be made to accord with the general powers enjoyed at present by the majority of Congress. The President and the majority in Congress are charged with the general defence; they regulate commerce, they have the Superintence of foreign affairs, they have the means of raising funds and armies; they have the power, therefore, of controlling all the preliminary negotiations and measures which lead to war; yet before the Commencement of hostilities they would be obliged to submit to the will of the minority. The distinction moreover, suggested by the amendment, would be wholly fallacious in practice. Offensive hostilities are often the best means of defence, and that surely would be a most impolitic arrangement, which would curb the spirit and fetter the strength of the nation, which might condemn it to witness the grossest insults and injuries, which would render it the inactive spectator of hostilities against us on the ocean, and the total annihilation of foreign commerce, until the enemy would relieve us from the thralldom of a small minority, by an actual invasion of our Soil. The unanimity of a Polish diet would be more unreasonable, but it would scarcely be less inconvenient. The danger against which the amendment professes to guard, is that of a small majority involving the nation in war. Such a conjuncture may possible arise, but it is a fair incident to the many advantages—of our form of government, and the majority perceiving its weakness should proceed with great caution. In other countries the single voice of the Sovereign may put to hazard the peace of the nation. Our Security is, that no war can be commenced unless the executive, and a majority both of the representatives and Senators concur in its propriety. To require more than that majority, is inevitably to make the will of the greater part of the nation submissive to that of the Smaller. The committee cannot recommend the adoption of such a principle.

The sixth amendment is "That no person who shall be hereafter naturalized shall be eligible as a member of the Senate or House of Representatives of the United States, nor be capable of holding any civil office under the authority of the United States.

It is unquestionably true that the rapid progress of our native population has rendered the introduction of foreigners an object of very secondary concern, and that without arrogance we may be suffered to think that competent persons can be found among our native citizens to fill all the offices of government. Yet it may be fairly questioned whether the total exclusion proposed is generous to others, or wise to ourselves. The revolutions of Europe may hereafter drive as they have already driven many an honorable and distinguished exile to the shelter of our hospitality. The distance which separates him from his native Country, is some guarantee that he has not chosen his new residence from any motive of levity, but from deliberate choice; and when he has abjured his Allegiance to that Country, when his fortunes and family are fixed among us, when he has closed all the avenues to his return, when a long probation has evinced his attachment to our institutions; why should his mind continue still in exile, and why should the natural and honorable ambition for political distinction be extinguished forever in his breast. Why too should we deprive ourselves of the choice of such a man whose European experience may be useful if the deliberate voice of the community is in his favor. Other nations do not indulge in so jealous an exclusion. There is scarcely a nation in Europe which does not habitually employ the talents of strangers, wherever they can be most useful.

Even in England the most fastidious of all the nation's of Europe with regard to strangers, naturalization is in many respects more easy than in the United States. Many of the restrictions on aliens may be at once removed by Act of Parliament, or by the mere wish of the crown; and we can readily call to our recollection, even within the present reign, several officers of high rank, both civil and military, employed in important and confidential stations by the government of that country.

In the United States moreover we enjoy a greater security than other nations from the deliberation with which the choice of our Country must be made—the probationary term of residence, and the certainty that no foreigner can rise to power but by the voluntary suffrage of the community. The number of foreigners now in office does not threaten any inconvenience, and ever that number will no doubt rapidly diminish. Out of 182 representatives in Congress there are, it is believed, not more than four who were born out of the limits of the United States, and in the Senate not one member. In one respect too the operation of the amendment would be injurious by preventing the employment of American consuls, natives of the countries in which they reside—a practice almost universal among commercial nations. The natural and prudent precautions against foreign influence will therefore probably be satisfied by requiring a long noviciate to wean a stranger from foreign modes of thinking, and insure his attachment to our institutions, and after that ordeal is past, leaving him a fair competition with native talents for political advancement, a competition in which the natural bias in favor of our own countryman will ensure them at least an equal chance of success. The Committee, therefore recommend a dissent from the proposed amendment.

The Seventh amendment is, that “The same person shall not be elected President of the United States a second time, nor shall the President be elected from the same state two terms in succession.”

The first part of this amendment, the provision against the re-election of the president, is strongly recommended by its tendency to insure the more complete independence of that officer. It is supposed that after reaching the highest elevation to which his Country could raise him a President of the United States with nothing to fear from the ambition of rival politicians, nor to hope from popular favor, having no partizans to reward for the past or to gain for the future, would exercise with more freedom and firmness the functions of his magistracy. These high independence of Character is so admirable a part of a statesmans Character that to secure it we might be tempted to overlook the many inconveniences which necessarily accompany the proposed amendment; the instability and vacillation for instance which such frequent changes give to the administration; the denial to the nation of the future services of a President who has proved himself eminently qualified for his office, and the destruction of one great inducement to good conduct in an officer, the hope of being rewarded by future confidence for past service.

The Amendment is however defective in two respects. Its Chief object is to shield the independence of the President by preventing future intrigues for power. It should therefore prescribe the ex-president not merely from the chief magistracy but from all other offices.

The same president who would submit to the dominion of others to secure a re-election would be equally subservient for the vice presidency, or he might become the partizan of that candidate for the next presidency who would secure him a retreat in some subordinate station. The exclusion from office to be effectual must be general. The amendment errs in another respect. One of the great features of the executive should be permanency and stability.

It represents the nation, it is immediately charged with its foreign concerns, it therefore should present both at home and abroad something systematic in its conduct and permanent in its character. Frequent changes give it a fatal cast of irresolution and inconstancy. The short period for which the president is chosen exposes the administration to that error, but his re-eligibility (if his conduct be approved) furnished the means of correcting it. If therefore it should be deemed proper to deny the right of re-election, the President should be chosen originally for a longer term, since it would be an injurious anomaly in our system, that the tenure of the judiciary should be within any limitation of time, that of the Senate six years, with an indefinite right of re-election—while the executive alone, that branch of the government where system, permanency, and experience can alone secure a wise administration; that the executive alone should be condemned to more frequent changes than any other part of the government.

With regard to the second branch of the amendment, it is not perceived that any advantage could be gained by circumscribing the public choice within any geographical boundaries. At the formation of the Constitution, when the states were less acquainted with each other, and more jealous, both of the general government and of themselves than they now are, it was a natural precaution against the accumulation of power, either in the United States, or any particular state, that the two highest officers of the government should not be from the same state. That restriction still exists, But our experience since has not proved the utility of selecting officers of any Kind, with reference merely to their places of residence, and all those arrangements which indicate that we are citizens of a state, rather than citizens of the United States, are not now to be encouraged. It seems wiser to leave the choice of the nation perfectly unrestrained and to suffer the discernment of the Country to select its best citizens, without regarding the section of the Union where they may happen to reside.

The Committee, therefore, conclude this examination by submitting to the consideration of Senate the following resolutions:

Whereas, the legislatures of Connecticut and Massachusetts, have proposed the following amendments to the Constitution of the United States:

First. Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states, which may be included within this Union, according to their respective number of free persons, including those bound to serve for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, and all other persons.

Second. No new state shall be admitted into the Union, by Congress in virtue of the power granted by the Constitution, without the concurrence of two-thirds of both Houses.

Third. Congress shall not have power to lay any embargo on the ships or vessels of the United States, in the ports or harbors thereof, for more than sixty days.

Fourth. Congress shall not have power, without the concurrence of two-thirds of both Houses, to interdict the Commercial intercourse between the United States and any foreign nation, or the dependencies thereof.

Fifth. Congress shall not make or declare war, or authorize acts of hostility against any foreign nation, without the concurrence of two thirds of both houses, except such acts of hostility be in defence of the territories of the United States, when actually invaded.

Sixth. No person, who shall hereafter naturalized, shall be eligible as a member of the Senate or House of Representatives of the United States; nor capable of holding any civil office under the authority of the United States.

Seventh. The Same person shall not be elected President of the United States a second time, nor shall the President be elected from the same state two terms in succession.

The Secretary of the Commonwealth this day—presented a message from the Governor, to the Legislature in the following words to wit:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The Bill, entitled "An Act for the regulation of the militia was presented for my approbation but a few days preceding the adjournment of the last Legislature.

The multiplicity and pressure of my official duties at that period, particularly from bills previously and subsequently presented, and many of them requiring prompt attention, precluded the possibility of my then devoting the time necessary to understand the principles, much less the details, of so important a bill. I have since examined with care all its principles and provisions and I am impressed with a conviction, that the interest of the Community will be promoted and the militia system rendered more perfect by submitting the bill to the consideration of the present legislature. I therefore return it to the Senate in which it originated, with the following objections:

First—Because the bill was predicated upon, and has various references to the war, which existed at the time the bill was draughted, and during a great part of the time it was under consideration; and the amendments which in some places were adopted to make the phraseology of the bill conform to the peace which had been concluded, have made the sense and intention of the legislature less obvious than is desirable, and less clear and definite than they would have been, had not the relations of the nations changed so materially, from the time the bill was drawn to the time when it finally passed the legislature.

Second—Because a law which imposes extensive and important duties and heavy penalties for their non-performance, ought to be clear of ambiguity, simple and easily understood; whereas the bill under the consideration from circumstances just alluded to, does not carry with it these essential characteristics.

A Message from the Governor to both houses of the Legislature on the general affairs of the Commonwealth, was this day presented by the Secretary of the Commonwealth. Vizt—
To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

At no period of our existance as a nation has our Character stood so deservedly high and our prospects been so bright as at present. Single handed we have waged a glorious war against a nation of all others most able and willing to Cripple our Commerce annihilate our navy and dry up the sources of our independence and happiness. An honorable peace has brought with it an abundant commerce, which will enable our government to meet all demands and provide for all probable future wants. The navy, which in our contest with great Britain was the first and the last portion of public force which Covered itself with glory, and the nation as with a shield, has within a few months, Carried our fame into other nations, and conquered another energy.

After liberating our Captive fellow Citizens, it dictated the terms of peace. The Barbarian pirates, that for centuries have plundered and extorted tribute from all Europe, have been humbled by the youngest nation of the earth. The crescent of the east has been eclipsed by the rising star of the west, and we should be more or less than men, if these repeated gallant achievement of our Country-men at home and abroad, did not make us proud of the name of Americans, a pride which it is honorable to cherish, and which I trust will be Cherished, until every man who is entitled to the appellation will feel so much of its dignity as to make it a respectable passport throughout the world.

Since the meeting of the last legislature, events the most important, extraordinary and unexpected have agitated and convulsed Europe. An individual, attended by a body guard, confiding in the affection of the people and the devotion of the army, landed on the shores of France. His name, the herald of his glory, was hailed with acclamations: he rode as in a triumphal car to the Capital; not an arm nor a voice was raised against him, and he was in a few days seated on the throne which a Bourbon had hastily abdicated. The sovereigns of Europe Combined against the man whom a nation had welcomed. They poured their armies upon France like a mighty torrent, and a single but sanguinary battle decided the fate of that Kingdom, and hurled from his throne that man whose genius and talents had caused Kings and Empires to forget their hatred and unite against this mighty one as the common enemy of all. The allied armies entered France, and compelled her to drink deep of the Cup of which she had made others taste. France the first and most faithful ally of the United States, is devastated and dismembered by foreign arms, while those of her own Children instead of being turned against the invaders, are employed in destroying each other. United, they would have stemmed the tide of invasion and turned back the waters of bitterness upon those who are now consuming their means of subsistence, violating the dearest objects of their love, and turning them from their homes, hungry and houseless. As human beings we must feel for our fellow men, nor can we help feeling acutely for the Sorrows and sufferings of those who stood firmly with us in our day of adversity, who with their arms assisted to raise, and with their blood to cement the glorious temple which we raised to independence. Shall those awful dispensations of Divine providence pass before us without our being deeply impressed with the baleful consequences of being a divided people. We must unite upon national ground; we must cherish a national spirit and become a united people against all foreign foes; or (which God forbid) the day may Come when when we like the people of France, in sackcloth and ashes may weep over the ruins of our unhappy and dismembered Country. The page of history is full of the most impressive lessons, but if any one truth be more repeatedly or impressively illustrated, it is the necessity of union amongst the people. Let us be wise, and profit by the experience of ages. In our late war we had too much of Contention, too much of division, but, heaven be praised, with all our embarrassment, and all our drawbacks, a just and glorious war has been terminated by an honorable peace. Long may the peace continue; long may the nation repose in honor and safety on the laurels with which our faithful militia, our brave army, and gallant navy, have profusely Strewed the land, the ocean and the lakes.

The best way to preserve peace, is to be prepared for war. We live in an eventful age, and duty requires prudent preparations to meet those dangers which jealousy hatred and envy may engender. The late war has done more to secure the permanence of our republican institutions and to establish for us a Character abroad, than its most zealous advocates and most sanguine friends could have hoped. It has shewn us our strength and our weaknesses and we owe it to ourselves, our posterity and mankind, to profit by the Knowledge thus acquired.

During the late war the soil of this Commonwealth was never trodden by an hostile foot, yet it had at one time a greater number of Militia and volunteers in the service of the United States than were at any time in the field from any other state in the union. Our Militia and volunteers were actually engaged with the enemy in Canada, on lake Erie, at Baltimore and elsewhere, and stood ready to repel him from the States of New York and New Jersey. These are proud facts for Pennsylvania, and I Could not deny myself the gratification of placing them, without comment, before our fellow-citizens; not however, without cherishing the hope that they may Stimulate to such legislative provisions as shall make the militia the best and safest, as it always must be the surest, instrument for the support of national independence and the preservation of internal tranquility.

Experience has shewn the futility of the idea of converting every man into a soldier. An efficient defence must in my judgment be sought in a select militia. Such a body, always organized and disciplined and well appointed, can on any emergency be promptly brought into the field, and so long as freedom is appreciated and patriotism inherited from a brave ancestry, we shall never want abundant materials to form such a force.

To attain this desirable object, it would seem only necessary to aid and foster the spirit that animates our youth by granting immunities to those who shall enrol themselves in select corps to serve such a period as may be fixed by law, holding forth to him who honorably discharges his duty, future exemption from service, a liberal remuneration for the uniform and accoutrements furnished by him and for the time he shall have spent in acquiring the art of war. It is well observed, in the farewell address of the great and the good Washington, that "timely disbursements to prepare for danger, frequently prevent greater disbursements to repel it." The whole male population between certain ages might be held in reserve, enrolled and mustered perhaps once a year. The quality of labor which would be performed by this latter body on those days now spent in attempting to teach them the military art, would be in value, equal to the expense which ought to be incurred in organizing and equipping a very considerable body of select militia. I cannot dismiss this subject without declaring my conviction that the late war has manifested the patience under privations, the military ardor, and innate courage of our fellow citizens.

In the south, where difference in language, of habit and even of national prejudices tended to disunite and distract, yet all were, through the delicate attentions, sagacity, firmness and super-eminent qualifications of one of the first heroes of the age, made subservient to the general weal, sources of the most honorable emulation and causes of the most glorious triumph.

The reports of the brigade inspectors, made agreeably to law, of the arms, ammunition, military stores and camp equipments in their respective brigades, exhibit much valuable property, some of it in such state as to impress the legislature with the necessity of collecting it into depots were it can receive the attention necessary to preserve it from destruction. I would suggest that an arsenal for such purposes be built at the seat of government, and another somewhere near lake Erie. Of the rifle so destructive to an enemy in the hands of our hardy woodsmen, there are few the property of the state. I would recommend the purchase of some and an increase also of field ordinance.

The loan of $300,000 directed by law of the last legislature, to enable the United States to pay the Pennsylvania militia and volunteers who had been in service the last campaign, was effected as soon as practicable. Unfortunately the sum was not sufficient to pay all who were entitled, and Congress not having made any appropriation of monies for the payment of Militia, some remain unpaid even at this late period. If any should prevent Congress from promptly attending to this subject, I would recommend an additional loan to enable government to pay those meritorious citizens who are yet unpaid. Legislative exposition is required of the law giving additional pay out of the state treasury, to our militia while in the service of the United States. It is doubted whether the provision of the law extends to and embraces the cases of those of our militia who had been ordered into the service, but who were arrested on their march by the order of the Secretary at war before they arrived at the place of rendezvous.

A declaratory law appears necessary to prevent in certain cases a deprivation of the elective franchise. The letter of the Constitution does not, as is found in practice, secure that invaluable right to all those who are believed to be within the spirit of its guarantee.

It is submitted to your consideration whether, under legislative provision, the qualifications necessary to exercise the right of suffrage may not be more clearly defined and better secured, than if all cases of doubt are left to the decision of irresponsible officers, whose decisions on similiar points are as dissimilar, as are the feelings, prejudices or opinions of the different individuals who constitute the various election tribunals throughout the state.

Relieved from the various and complicated duties incident to a state of war, the Legislature will turn more of their attention to the cultivation of the arts of peace and the amelioration of such of our laws as may be found to have any unsound analogy to the severity of European polity. First in order, and first in the interest of humanity, stands a completely revised penal code. The materials in the report of the Attorney General, and reports and bills of late legislatures on this subject, will it is hoped be found so ample as greatly to lighten the labor of graduating a scale of crimes and proportionate punishments. A system of criminal jurisprudence which shall, as far as human laws can, shield persons and property against outrage or injustice, and yet be tempered with mercy and mildness, is I am confident, expected by the Christian and the philanthropist. In the contemplated system it is hoped, will be introduced ample provision for the suppression of vice. In addition to what on this subject is mentioned in a communication I had the honor to make a former legislature, dated December 10th 1813, to which I beg leave to refer, permit me to suggest the propriety of preventing, as well the demoralizing practice of holding unauthorized fairs, and of so regulating those that are authorized, as to prevent their being scenes of dissipation and vice, rather than marts for the purpose of sale and barter, as the preventing also the violation of the law against lotteries. Its penalties are openly evaded, under the specious name of "distribution of property;" by this ingenious device, swindling is practiced to an enormous amount. It would in a great measure prevent or at least tend to lessen the evils of drunkenness, if the property of habitual drunkards were placed in the hands of trustees, without whose consent debts subsequently contracted by any such mentally diseased person, should by law be irrecoverable.

Frequent and serious reflection has confirmed the suggestions made in the communication above alluded to that the results of forfeited recognizances in cases of personal wrong, ought of right to be applied to remunerate the parties injured; also as to the modification of the sums to be paid for tavern licenses; provisions to be made to the modification of the sums to be paid for tavern licenses: provision to be made to prevent the too frequent setting aside the verdicts of juries (now become more necessary, when new trials are ordered for reasons having no bearing upon the merits of the matter in controversy): respecting larcenies committed without the state: the inefficiency of the writ of habeas Corpus: the frequent application for pardon, and the want of a Court of revision in capital cases. I beg leave to introduce to your notice also, that it frequently occurs in counties where the sitting of the court of quarter Sessions is limited to four days that criminals cannot be sentenced, because a verdict of guilty is not found within that period. Imprisonment to the next term is the consequence, costs are incurred and the escape of the criminal hazarded. For remedy, I would recommend a continuance of that court during the week in which it commenced, and a continuance so much longer as may be necessary to completely end by verdict and judgment any cause commencing during said week. As it frequently happens that persons accused of the higher grade of offences are not arrested and secured in time so that a precept can issue for holding at the next Session a Court of Oyer and Terminer, I would propose that at a Court of quarter Sessions, the president being present, a Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail delivery may be opened and held, though no precept for that purpose may have been previously issued. I would propose, also, that seduction be punished as a Criminal offence. The law by which persons wrongfully accused of crimes and misdemeanors are compelled to pay the Costs of their own witnesses, is oppressive and dissimilar to the usage in other cases. It ought to be provided, that where the return of ignoramus is made by a grand jury, or where on trial a verdict of not guilty is rendered, and the prosecutor is ordered to pay the Costs, the juries shall respectively determine, whether the defendants costs shall be paid by the prosecutor or by himself. If an indictment for a nuisance in a public road or highway is on trial not sustained, it ought for obvious reasons to be provided, that the prosecutor shall not be liable for costs, unless there be evident malice and want of probable cause.

The object in the contemplation of a late legislature, in having reported by the Judges of the supreme Court, such parts of the English statute law as are of force in the state, is confidently anticipated from the present general assembly.

No sufficient reason presents itself to my mind, why the trial of issues in fact is imposed on the judges of the supreme Court: so much time is thereby consumed as makes it impossible for them to hold the courts of error twice a year. I would suggest a provision for the trial and disposal otherwise of such causes, and an injunction that the supreme Court be held twice a year in each of the several districts of the state. That an allowance by a judge must be had before a writ of error or of certiorari can issue, proves often derogatory to personal liberty. Those writs, because the judge who allows them has no discretion, might with safety be sued out from the supreme Court and Courts of Common pleas respectively, without such allowance, and the affidavit required on those issuing from the latter Court, might be taken before the prothonotary or before a Justice of the peace. Arbitrators it would seem, agreeably to a decision of the supreme Court, cannot nonsuit a plaintiff. Should they not possess this power, so that they may not be required to try a cause where there is no evidence. Powers co-extensive with those of the supreme Court to reverse arbitration proceedings, ought to be vested in the Courts of Common pleas which now seem to be denied to the latter. Under the arbitration law of 1810, the plaintiff appealing gives bail for the money; but the defendant, who generally is under the temptation to appeal for delay, is only required to enter special bail. This requires correction. The defendant should certainly not appeal with greater facility than the plaintiff. The Sureties of Sheriffs are now exonerated at the end of two years after the office expires, a period too short for a development of the various transactions incident in many counties to that office. I would recommend that sheriffs bonds hereafter to be taken as respects their sureties, should be of force for five years after the expiration of the office. The ambiguity in the 20th section of a law, passed 24th of February 1729-30, entitled "An Act for the relief of insolvent debtors within the province of Pennsylvania," declaring who shall not be elected sheriff, has created much difficulty. I would recommend the repeal of that section, and the enactment of a law amply guarding the citizen against oppression by the officer, and defining clearly incompatibilities. Sheriffs omitting to return Judicial writs at or before the day they are returnable, ought to be personally responsible, unless it happened from some unavoidable cause.

The people are frequently subject to laws for months before they are promulgated. This is much complained of and ought to be remedied, by directing that laws of a general nature, taking effect within six months after their passage, shall be published in newspapers. Decisions by Courts of law which regard acts of assembly, should be represented to the Legislature; and in uniformity of decision on similar points would more generally prevail throughout the state, if written decisions and all others of importance made and pronounced by courts, were reported and published. These subjects being for the most part intimately connected with the administration of Justice, criminal and civil, will, I feel assured, engage your serious consideration.

The subject of manufacturers, from full experience during the restrictive System and the war, is now so well understood as respects the practicability of advantageously carrying them on, as to the Kind of goods which may be made and the quality and durability of the articles which have had a fair experiment amongst us, that it is deemed unnecessary to urge arguments in their support. The general government, fully aware of the importance of the subject, will it is confidently hoped, follow the dictates of political wisdom, and protect our manufacturers against injurious foreign competition or combination: a contrary course would, protract the long and anxiously sought real independence of our country, and again impose on us a dependence almost Colonial. So far as individual state means can aid national measures for the promotion of this and other desirable objects, we may confidently pledge the co-operation of faithful Pennsylvania, who we anticipate will soon take a conspicuous and permanent rank amongst manufacturing nations.

At no time since the existence of our government, was the utility and value of inland navigation more clearly evinced than during the late war. The embarrassments, disappointments and losses to the government and to Citizens, consequent from the want of that mode of intercourse and transportation, for warlike as well as commercial purposes, have been so manifest, that further excitement than a reference to the example and projects of our sister states and other nations is deemed to be useless. It may however be proper to add, that notwithstanding appropriations of near a million of dollars of the public treasure during a short period, and the extraordinary expenses of the state during the war, our resources are unimpaired, and, united with individual wealth and enterprise, are equal to the accomplishment of any practicable water communication. I presume again to invite your attention to those two highly important objects: the connection of the waters of the Chesapeake and the Delaware, and those of the Susquehanna and the Schuylkill.

On the subject of education I regret to say, that of the many Seminaries throughout the state which have been aided by grants from the Legislature, few have gone into operation on a liberal scale, and those few are unprosperous for the want of sufficient funds. This state of things is probably owing to a too general diffusion of individual support and public bounty: and such would not have been the result, if endowments by the legislature had been more consonant to the Constitution, which directs that the "art and sciences shall be promoted in one or more seminaries of learning." While on this subject I feel it a duty to say, that from various considerations and local causes, the injunction, that schools be established throughout the state in such manner that the poor may be taught gratis, has not been carried into effect, to the extent nor in the liberal spirit of that instrument.

It is with high gratification I refer the Legislature to the auditor generals expositions of the financial concerns of the Commonwealth. So abundant has been our revenue that of the debt of $300,000 dollars, contracted under an act passed the 25th of February 1814, to pay expenses incident to the war, there remains unextinguish but 45,000 dollars. This balance could now be paid, but will not be received before it is due, agreeably to the contract. And we have a well grounded hope soon to extinguish the loan to the state of other 300,000 dollars first above alluded to, without embarrassing the treasury and of meeting also in due time any unapplied for appropriations, as well as any probable reasonable expenditure for the further improvement of the state which the prevailing of liberal policy can dictate to a wise and prudent Legislature.

For proof of how little the just and necessary war in which the nation has been engaged has obstructed the channels of wealth, and for evidence of the continued happiness and general prosperity of the state. Pennsylvania exultingly looks to the many and lately erected monuments of public spirit, amongst which are seen, bridges over the Delaware and Schuylkill, and four over the bold and rapid Susquehanna; three of them completed within three years from the commencement of the work, and the fourth at the seat of government rapidly progressing. A bridge is also building at Berwick over the N. E. branch of the Susquehanna. A turnpike road from Philadelphia by way of Reading to Sunbury is extending itself towards Erie, dividing the state into two nearly equal triangles. Another turnpike road from Philadelphia by way of Lancaster, is progressing along the Southern boundary of the state towards Pittsburg, a place which bids fair to be the great manufacturing mart of Western America. A general spirit of public and private liberality, observable in every section of the state—and unparalled progress of arts and manufacturers—vast and valuable agricultural improvements, abundant harvests and consequent increase of wealth—these indisputable and unerring indications of a prosperous community, are amongst the blessings which copiously flow from a rational government administered by the peoples agents for the people's good. May we continue duly to appreciate the inestimable principles of religious, civil and political liberty, and to be duly grateful for the favors lavished upon us by Him who is the giver of all good.

I am persuaded that your sound judgments and pure motives aided by local Knowledge and a concentration of public opinion from every part of the state, will readily discern and promptly adopt those plans which will best promote the happiness and well being of the Commonwealth; and I promise a cheerful co-operation in all measures tending to a judicious regulation of our finances, the equal distribution of justice, the promotion of useful Knowledge, and generally an inculcation and fostering, of all the virtues which constitute the strength and can alone secure permanence to governments, founded as are our state and national constitutions, on the equal rights of man.

A circular letter was written by the Governor to the several auctioneers of the State—as follows—Vizt.

Sir,

I have read with attention the opinion of the Attorney General respecting the powers of auctioneers their duties and the Commissioners to which they are entitled, and agree with him, "that an Auctioneer may sell at vendue at any place within his district," but with this qualification however, that he can establish and hold regularly stated sales in his known auction room only that though he may sell a cargo of wines on a wharf, a ship where it lies, or a house where it stands, yet he shall not be permitted to concentrate other independent concerns and business as numerous as are those, who are willing to sell under the Sanction of his commission, their own goods or goods by them collected as his agents or as Commission Merchants and thus indirectly through others, do that which directly by himself he cannot do—Vizt, create Auctioneers not intended by law, or in other words as many as he finds it his interest to create—That he has such an unlimited discretionary right cannot fairly be inferred from the common sense meaning of another portion of the opinion Vizt "It is undoubtedly, generally speaking the object of the law to give every possible facility to the public or to individuals to make sales by auction to the best advantage, it is however under this qualification that the Auctioneer is to make sale at such places within his district as is most for his benefit for if indeed public and individual facility and promoting the private interest of the Auctioneers is the sole object, as the letter of this last quoted paragraph would seem to impart, then it is wrong to legislate at all on the subject, his private interest will sufficiently urge him to procure facilities for the public and for individuals—The concentrations of a separate and independent business such as is done at the Shakespear buildings, and at other places, it would seem is quite in the broad spirit of the last quotation but it is an extention of business not intended by the law, creating for the City of Philadelphia Six auctioneers, and not warranted by the Commission of any, one of them and must be discontinued.

To Peter Kuhn Esqr

Simon Snyder

Harrisburg, March 28th 1816.

Similar letters were sent, with the necessary, alterations, to all the Auctioners in the City of Philadelphia.

To the question proposed respecting the powers of Auctioneers, their duties, and the Commissions to which they are entitled, I answer, 1st An Auctioneer may sell at vendue at any place within his district that he may deem most beneficial to himself, I do not think he can be compelled to sell at the warehouses of individuals. And it would be hazardous indeed to undertake to prove not only that he had no previous engagement but that the sale at the individual warehouses would be most beneficial to the auctioneer. And it would not be sufficient for the owner of the goods to prove specific damages.

2nd It is undoubtedly, generally speaking the object and intention of the law to give every possible facility to the public or to individuals to make sales by auction to the best advantage it is however under this qualification that the auctioneer is to make sale at such place within his district as is most for his benefit.

3^d It is at the same time the duty of the auctioneer to accomodate, as far as he can, those who have goods to sell, and it appears very reasonable that books should be exposed to sale in the evening rather than the day, as it has been found by experience that, that is the time when purchasers of such articles will most generally attend, and if the Auctioneer should Act in an obstinate unreasonable manner the Governor on application would probably remove him.

4th After a careful examination of the Acts of Assembly on the subject, I cannot find that the auctioneer is justifiable in any case, if he receives more than two and a half per cent commission. He may compound for less but can never exceed that limitation—I am not apprized of any Act of Assembly relative to this particular, subsequent to that of April 13th 1782.

July 13th, 1815.—

Jared Ingersoll.

I had occasion formerly to examine whether the Auctioneers may not sell in any part of their district, on examining the act of Assembly on the subject I could not find any restriction in this respect—I am therefore of opinion, Mr Kuhn may go with his crier and Clerk in any part of his district and there make sale.

March 6th 1816

All the carpenter work exposed to the weather shall have two coats of paint—the doors a mahogany color, the blinds and shutters green, the frame of the latter white.—The garret shall have a ceiling above against collar beams, and be partitioned off with rough boards into four apartments, one at each end, twenty five feet by the depth of the building and two of equal size in front of the stair landing.

A letter was this day written by the Secretary of the Commonwealth by direction of the Governor to William H. Crawford Esqr Secretary at War, in answer to his letter of the seventeenth day of July last on the subject of Courts Martial held for the trial and punishment of those of the Militia of this State, who neglected or refused during the late War to enter, when ordered into the service of the United States, which proceedings are said to have been declared void by a civil tribunal in Pennsylvania.

State of Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, August 7th 1816.

Sir,

The Governor has directed me to acknowledge the receipt, at Selins-Grove, Union County, where he then was, of your letter to him, dated 17th June last, on the subject of Courts Martial, held for the trial and punishment of those of the militia of this State, who neglected or refused, during the late war, to enter, when ordered, into the service of the United States—which proceedings are said to have been declared void by a civil tribunal in Pennsylvania—and to submit for consideration the following:

That the orders for holding those Courts Martial were issued by him under the laws of Congress, and agreeably to the rules and regulations established for the Government of the Army of the United States, and not in virtue of any authority vested in him by the Constitution or the laws of Pennsylvania, will evidently appear from the order itself, directed to the Adjutant General, dated 29th October 1813, and more particularly from a postscript to a letter to That Officer, written by the Secretary of the Commonwealth covering the said order & dated the 30th day of the same month—That the constituting of Courts Martial with in accordance with the established practice, he was induced to believe, because he was not otherwise instructed, and because when proceedings of a Court Martial under that order instituted, were presented by the Judge Advocate thereof to the then Secretary at War Gen^l. John Armstrong for the consideration and final determination of the President, that officer was directed to proceed to this place and to lay them before the Governor for his consideration and determination thereon, specially referring him, through the said Judge Advocate, Humphrey Fullerton, Esquire of Westmoreland County, to the 65th Article of War.

By a Court so instituted, Everard Bolton was tried sentenced and finally imprisoned, and was discharged from imprisonment by William Tilghman Esqr Chief Justice of Pennsylvania on Habeas Corpus—This opinion, as Judge Brackenridge, since deceased, informed the Governor, was not on deliberate argument before the Court, but was made up upon written statements on behalf of the United States, and on behalf of the prisoner, and was acceded to by the since deceased Judge, not from any consideration he had given the general principle involved in the question, but because he believed the case of Bolton to have had connected with it circumstances of a peculiar and personal nature, and that this decision could not extend to, or affect similar offences committed against the U. S. subsequently to a special provision contained in the 21st section of a law passed by the Legislature of this state (28th March 1814) all which latter cases, in his, the Judges opinion stood upon very different ground, and were clearly distinguishable from those that happened before the passing of that law—Chief Justice Tilghman amongst other things says, that he “knows of no law of Pennsylvania, which authorises the holding of a Court Martial, for the trial of Offences against the United States.”—That such was the case in Pennsylvania antecedent to the twenty eighth of March 1814, is admitted, nor was there any but general directions in the Act of Congress for the instituting of such Courts; no Officer was particularly designated for this service by either government!—These embarrassments were surmounted by applying to the case, that general rule of right reason, that laws deal not in precept only, but that where they imperatively enjoin duties, they provide also if not positively, yet impliedly for their enforcement; from these premises follow the obvious deductions, that the requisition by the President on the State Executive for a Militia force, would be fruitless—nay nugatory, if it did not also confer the power to that officer to coerce into the service and punish the negligent as well as the refractory delinquent—But to do away the necessity of longer acting from inference, and for the perfection of the system of Courts Martial, the Legislature of Pennsylvania very wisely by the law of 28th March 1814, specially directed the proper Brigade Inspectors to summon and institute Courts Martial for the trial of that description of Offenders against the U. S. and from his acts subsequent thereto you will observe the Governor was still impressed with his original views—he issued not a general order, but merely invited the attention of the proper Brigade Inspectors to the law enjoining on them the performance of a duty, which by General Orders he had, before the law was passed, commanded to be done.—This law it is true is of date subsequent to Boltons delinquency—yet it is remarkable that tho' antecedent to his discharge, and tho' antecedent to numerous delinquencies, which had happened subsequent to the law, the judge did not think proper to notice it,—nay, he went farther, he denied in the words above quoted, the existence in Pennsylvania of any such law—Independently of the opinion he has entertained of the fallacy of the Judges premises, reasoning and opinion, and independently of the irksome feeling that would be consequent upon issuing the desired orders for again instituting Courts Martial, to try offenders that have already been (he conceives) lawfully tried—Some sentenced to fine and imprisonment, some acquitted, upon all of which he has finally determined, and a large amount of fines collected and paid over to the Marshal of this district—He also thinks the orders would be premature, because suits of trespass, brought against the President, Judge Advocate, and all the members of a Court Martial and against the Brigade Inspector, who instituted the Court agreeably to the law of 28th March 1814, are pending before a Court of law in Lancaster County; and so long as another question of equal importance to the Militia service, is pending before a civil tribunal at Philadelphia, which last it would appear from an application to forward from this office, to Charles J. Ingersoll, the Attorney General's deputy for the district of Pennsylvania, certain authenticated papers, connected with the case, will soon be tried:—Such a course of procedure, by the Government it is conceived would be an abandonment of its friends,—the conquerors of a ruthless foe, to the vengeance of its opposers, its worst because its internal enemies.—If however the Government of the U. S. has resolved to acquiesce in the solitary opinion of Chief Justice Tilghman, then and in that case the reasons above stated, as because the act would require not only a sacrifice of feeling, but an abandonment of an opinion formed upon mature deliberation, and which he still believes to be correct.—He will readily through this department, furnish such information as may facilitate the ordering Courts Martial by the president, without the Agency of the Governor.—The documents referred to in the above letter will be forwarded as soon transcripts can be made.

In consequence of my being absent from the seat of Government, I did not receive the Governors instructions till yesterday, which circumstances has occasioned the delay in acknowledging the receipt of your letter.—

and one of them (Thompson) to have been pardoned before (January 11th 1810) by the name of W^m Thompson alias Thomas Turner—that the Governor is determined not to pardon in future any criminal, the second time, except under very peculiar circumstances—And the Board of Inspectors of the prison of Philadelphia were requested to add to their customary recommendations that the person recommended has not to their knowledge at any time before been imprisoned in the Jail of Philadelphia for any felonious act.

A Proclamation.

Whereas by a return duly made by the Judges of a Special Election held in the ninth Congressional district composed of the Counties of Mifflin, Huntingdon, Centre and Clearfield in this Commonwealth, on Tuesday the eighth day of October last, in pursuance of Writs issued by me on Saturday the fourteenth day of September last, under the authority of an Act of the General Assembly, passed the eighteenth day of February, in the year one thousand eight hundred and five, it appears that William P. Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State at Harrisburg this first day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and sixteen, and of the Commonwealth the forty-first.

By the Governor,

A letter was this day written by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, by order of the Governor, to George Bomford Esquire, Lieutenant Colonel of Ordnance of the United States, in answer to his letter of the eighteenth day of September last, requesting information of the number of Arms, and quantity of equipments that have been received by this State from the United States Government from time to time during the late war:—as follows

Harrisburg, Secretarys Office, November 1st 1816.

Sir,

Your letter to the Governor under date of September 18th 1816 has been duly received. —With regard to the number of Arms, and quantity of equipments received by this State from the U. S. during the late War, there are no documents in this office from which we can derive correct information, neither do I find among the books and papers of the late Adjutant General of this State, who also acted as Commissary and quarter Master General any statement of Arms or equipage received by him. By a copy of a letter, however, written by the late Adjutant General William Read under date of 1812, it appears that he had "transmitted to General Armstrong" an abstract of Camp equipments and military stores "received (and receipted for) from the U. States, at Fort Fayette at Pittsburg for two detachments of Pennsylvania Militia, the first assembled at Meadville on the 25th September 1812, the second assembled at Pittsburg on the 2d October 1812, accompanying said statements are receipts from the proper officers for the delivery of the said equipments and stores for the use of the said detachments." It is presumed that at the close of the service of the said detachment, the Camp equipage was returned to the proper officer of the U. States.—In the autumn of 1814, Arms and equipage were received for the use of the Militia of this State, then in the service of the U. S.—for the use of one detachment assembled at York in this State, the other at the City of Philadelphia.—The arms and equipments for the use of the former were drawn from the U. States stores at Carlisle; for the latter from the U. States stores at Philadelphia: The Officers of those depots of U. States Stores who deliver the Arms and equipage, no doubt took receipts for the same. To those Officers and to the abstract furnished by the Adjutant General Wm Reed, filed in the office of the Secretary at War, I would respectfully refer you for information, as well for the Articles delivered as those returned at the close of the service of the several detachments of Militia from this State in the service of the U. States during the late War.

Very Respectfully, Sir,

Your obt Servt

N. B. Boileau, Secry

Geo. Bomford Esqr

Lieut Col. of Ordnance

P. S. Permit me to add that when a detachment of Militia from this State, in the service of the U. States, were discharged at Buffaloe in the State of New York, upwards of 700 stand of State Muskets were deposited in the U. S. Stores, at that place, and as I am informed were never returned to the State.

Agreeably to appointment a Message from the Governor was this presented by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to both Houses of the Legislature on the general State of the affairs of the Commonwealth.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Fellow Citizens,

We meet to fulfil our constitutional duties, under circumstances of happiness and promise peculiar to us as a people. Peace, plenty and safety are within our walls, and we are invincible in the character we have acquired. Our nation has just exhibited to the world a scene of the most interesting and peculiar kind: a chief magistrate of the United States, to serve four years, has been elected, and is indebted for his elevation solely to his virtues, his talents and patriotism. Such an election and such an opportunity for a people to reward a faithful public servant, is only presented under our happy form of government. May we long enjoy it, and our children and their children's children, by fidelity to principle, singleness of heart and simplicity of manners, prove themselves worthy of those who dared to proclaim our independence and our rights, and those whose valor and whose sufferings achieved such inestimable blessings.

The interesting view which our country presents in its many existing and progressing improvements, and in the inland navigation of which our state and adjoining states are susceptible, suggests to the mind as one of the best, and eventually to Pennsylvania, most profitable improvements, a canal connecting the lake waters in the State of New York with the Susquehanna river. Independent of the trade from that state which would thereby flow through our country and to the Metropolis, and independent of its probably issuing in a water communication to the St. Lawrence, there would accrue numerous advantages to the inhabitants on the wide spreading Susquehanna, the Juniata and their numerous tributary streams by securing to them a cheap water carriage of gypsum, now an essential in Agriculture, and for that indispensable necessary of life, Salt. Another great advantage would be the facility and cheapness with which the iron of Centre, Huntingdon, and other Counties in Pennsylvania would be transported to the lake country, where nature has denied that most valuable of metals. These very obvious advantages to our constituents will I flatter myself induce a liberal legislature to aid by a subscription for stock, a company authorised by a law of New York to cut a Canal from the head of Seneca lake to the Chemung, a branch of Tioga which empties into the north east branch of the Susquehanna. A memorial on the subject and a letter containing information which may facilitate inquiry, I take the liberty herewith to present.

That our judiciary system has not attained that perfection essential to a prompt and faithful administration of justice, is a truth generally acknowledged, and by many severely felt. I have, to a former legislature, hazarded the opinion that the evils complained of are not so inherent in the system, as they are consequences resulting from the practice under it. By the official reports of the Prothonotaries of the several counties, it is ascertained that in most of the counties double and in some more than four times as many suits at law, are finally disposed of by arbitration as are determined by jury trial. In one of the western counties thirty-three causes were finally disposed of under the arbitration system in one year, during which time it does not appear that one suit was tried by a jury. These facts incontestibly prove that, inefficient as may be our system of jurisprudence, yet it cannot with truth be ascribed to its defects that in Pennsylvania justice by jury trial is not administered "without sale, denial or delay." The experience and observations of a life, chiefly spent in public stations convince me that so long as the chambers of counsellors are beset with clients, in term time, frequently until ten o'clock in the day for the purpose of preparing for trial causes then on the trial list, and that in consequence of such and other indulgencies by judges, not more than four or five hours of the day are devoted to business in the court room, and so long as the laudable practice of determining every cause without adjournment is not adopted by the courts or enforced by the Legislature, so long shall we be compelled to witness an entire term taken up in the trial of a single (perhaps) unimportant cause; and short sessions and long adjournments will render a dead letter the constitutional injunction which has been quoted. In addition to the suggestions made, on this important subject to the last legislature, is now submitted whether some provisions ought not to be made to guard against the frauds and injustice too often consequent on the manner in which mortgages are given and the length of time they are kept without being put upon record, to the injury of innocent purchasers and of creditors who may obtain judgments subsequent to the execution, though previous to the recording of the mortgage. The practice of insolvent debtors making assignments, excluding all those of their creditors from any share of the property of the insolvent who do not agree to the terms dictated in the assignment before a given time, is believed to be pregnant with injustice. Some legal regulation on this subject is loudly called for.

It is held by some of our Courts of law, that the amount of a judgment obtained amicably before a justice of the peace for a sum exceeding one hundred dollars and subsequently entered in the office of the Prothonotary agreeably to and under a special provision of the act entitled "An Act to amend and consolidate with its supplements the act entitled an Act for the recovery of debts and demands not exceeding one hundred dollars, before a justice of the peace, and for the election of constables and for other purposes, cannot be recovered nor can the judgment be revived by any process of the Court when the period approaches at which it would cease to be a lien on the real estate of the defendant. Believing that under this construction of the law, the object contemplated by the legislature is not attained. I would recommend such an amendment of the law as would make a justice's judgment when filed and entered according to law, have all the attributes, force and effect, and to be proceeded upon as, if the judgment had been originally obtained before the Court of Common Pleas.

A knowledge of cases of hardship and cruelty, induces me to solicit legislative interposition in behalf of the unfortunate and unprotected wife and children of the confirmed drunkard. The demoralizing, depopulating, and, I regret to say, increasing vice of drunkenness, would in my judgment be checked by a classification of taverns, by raising the price for licensing such as are useful and necessary, and by preventing the granting of licenses to houses not necessary for the accommodation of travellers or the inhabitants of the bicingage, and whose only customers are the drunkard and his vicious associates. I reiterate with more increased anxiety the wish, that seduction be punished as a criminal offence.

The frequency of oaths, and the levity with which they are commonly administered on occasions trifling and unnecessary, beget indifference and irreverence for the most awful appeal which the creature can make to his creator. This has not only a most pernicious influence upon morals and the order of society generally, but it causes the commission of numerous injuries by perjury. This abomination in our land it is feared will increase whilst oaths are uselessly multiplied, and so long as the distinction between merely moral and constructively legal perjuries shield the perjured against prosecution and deserved punishment.

Reason, on which our laws are said to be founded, has not like vices and crimes, degrees and subdivisions. Like its Divine Author, it is an eternal and unchangeable unit. As it is so eminently desirable, let us in our polity as nearly as human nature is capable of, conform to this immutable divine law. Let us endeavor to restore to proper consideration this most solemn transaction between man and his God. Would not the attainment of this important object be promoted by prohibiting Magistrates from administering Oaths in cases neither authorised nor required by law, where no penalty is incurred by swearing, however falsely and wickedly; and by inflicting the punishment of corrupt perjury in wilful deviations from truth in judicial investigations on matters even immaterial to the issue trying? And might not traverse jurors at the commencement of each court (as is uniformly practised with grand juries) be sworn generally for the faithful performance of their duty and the trial of all issues that should be submitted to them? To diminish the frequency of oaths, will add to their solemnity and increase the weight of their obligation on the conscience. Indeed, such are the baneful effects of the present prostitution of oaths, that it may merit consideration whether every citizen, on his first appearance before a court of civil or criminal jurisprudence, should not be sworn generally to perform with fidelity during his residence in the State, the several and various duties that are or may be by law constitutionally imposed upon members of the community. And to impress the public mind with the sanctity of oaths, to purify the administration of justice, to facilitate judicial enquiries, and to remove a chief cause of corruption of the morals of the community, all perjuries committed with intent to do wrong, ought promptly and severely to be punished.

The many laws which for the furtherance of justice have been passed by a succession of legislatures, confirming in special cases conveyances made by aliens for lands by them sold to citizens, has suggested the idea of removing generally by law all disabilities in the former proprietor by reason of alienage, and placing the individual claimant under an alien on ground similar to the commonwealth under the law of escheats.

This occasion is embraced to submit to the legislature a communication made to the Governor by Mr Jeremy Bentham, of London, on the subject of public law; which, though dated 14th July, 1814, was not received until after the adjournment of the last legislature. As this philanthropic communication arose out of suggestions of our esteemed fellow citizen, Albert Gallitin, his letter to the Governor and Mr Bentham's are herewith submitted, and also a letter from the Governor, and other papers connected with this highly interesting subject. The legislature will determine whether, under the circumstances of our as yet unconsolidated systems of civil and criminal polity, we can in the prosecution of this important work be benefited by the labours of the benevolent Mr Bentham.

Some of the obstacles that present themselves to the introduction of that system of general education commanded by the Constitution, could probably be obviated, if a mode were provided by law as well for laying off the several counties into convenient school district, as for ascertaining also the qualifications of school masters, and by paying out of the State treasury a small salary to those that are approved and faithfully discharge their duties. This would excite to emulation, command adequate talents, and exclude mere pretenders to the science of teaching.

Many and too fruitless have been the efforts made towards a perfect organization and disciplining of the militia. I am of opinion, to make it an efficient national force, it ought to be organized, armed and disciplined under the authority of congress. The constitution of the United States vests this right in the Legislature of the Union, and their exercise of it would probably secure a more energetic and certainly a more uniform system, than can be hoped from the legislatures of the several states. If I might hazard an opinion, founded on some experience, I would pronounce our present militia law injurious to the service, from its legislating too much.

There is in it an unimportant minuteness of detail, which might with advantage be left to the sound discretion of the officer. It is also very diffuse, and contains so many apparent contradictions, inconsistencies and clashing of authority, that its various provisions can neither be distinctly embraced, reconciled, or carried into effect.

The attempt to convert every man, under a certain age into a soldier, is demonstrably futile. The ambition and military pride essential to a soldier, is only to be found among the young and the vigorous; and such materials formed into select corps, well appointed and equipped, would constitute the pride and strength, the safety and glory of our country. These corps, in case of necessity, as was honorably demonstrated by our youth during the late war, would promptly march to meet the enemy at the most exposed and distant points. Such ardor and alacrity is not to be expected from men settled in business and advanced in life. They have imposed upon them the high and binding obligations of husband and father. These and their pecuniary transactions locate them to a spot from which they depart with reluctance. This description of men should be enrolled, officered and organized, and might be called out in classes or otherwise, when danger was imminent or the select corps unequal to the emergency of the times. To muster this force one day in the year, would accomplish all the objects ever likely to be acquired by training the great body of the people. The other days now worse than uselessly spent on parade, would be employed in adding to the wealth of the nation, and a reasonable commutation would by the men thus excused from militia duty, be willingly paid. The money thus raised would go far to remunerate the select militia for the time by them necessarily spent in acquiring the military art, and in meeting the expenses incidental to providing uniform clothing, so essential to inspire the soldier with respect for himself, his comrades and the profession. Remuneration, and any after exemptions or privileges which might be deemed advisable, should be appropriated to those only who should faithfully perform their duties as citizen soldiers for a given time.

The health-law will expire by its own limitation, in March 1817. To its Salutory provisions and the attention to duty of the board of health and other officers of the establishment, may, under Divine Providence, be ascribed the preservation of the City of Philadelphia from Pestilential and contagious diseases, and all the losses, miseries and afflictions that have heretofore been consequent on the introduction of yellow fever.—These considerations dictate a re-enactment of the law, if possible in an improved state. On this subject communicate a copy of a letter from the board of health.

The law establishing the district court of the city and county of Philadelphia, will also expire by its own limitation in March 1817. All the inducements which caused a former legislature to establish this court, are believed to be urgent and imperative for its continuance, or the establishment in that district of some other tribunal to assist in the deposal of the multitude of causes which necessarily arise in a populous and wealthy district.

A revision of the eighth section of the Act entitled "An Act to incorporate the city of Pittsburg," is suggested, because doubts are entertained whether certain gentlemen who officiate as aldermen of that city, are constitutionally vested with such appointments.

The law directing the erection of arsenals has been partially executed. The sum appropriated was found more than sufficient to erect buildings conforable to the Act of assembly. The Arsenal at Harrisburg is nearly complete. It will contain, on the ground floor, sixteen pieces of ordnance mounted on their carriages, and a large quantity of small arms, military stores and camp equipage. The structure combines safety, strength, utility and neatness.—A contract has been made for building another arsenal at Meadville. From the want of those materials which require time to prepare, and are essential, it cannot be completed before next summer. I am gratified at being able to state that I am advised that the state Arsenal in Philadelphia and the ordnance, small arms, and other state property in it, are in excellent order.

Building materials of the best quality for the contemplated state Capitol, have been purchased out of the appropriation of fifty thousand dollars made for that purpose. The report of the finances of the State, shewing on the 30th day of November last an unexpended balance in the treasury of $276,664.18, presents means adequate to an immediate prosecution of this desirable and necessary work. Three plans for the Capitol have been presented, and are herewith submitted for consideration. Gratifying as is the exposition of our finances, yet it must be borne in mind that the last legislature appropriated for various useful public improvements, about $270,000, not much of which has yet been paid. An expectation however is entertained that a considerable portion of the remainder will be called for the ensuing spring and summer.

In conformity to the act directing the sale of the State house and State house square in the city of Philadelphia a contract has been made for the sale thereof to the corporation of said city for certain purposes in the said Act mentioned, for a sum of $70,000, to be paid into the State Treasury as the law directs. A copy of the Contract and of the correspondence had on the subject is herewith laid before you.—

An authentic copy of the Act, entitled "An Act for the relief of the hospital at New Orleans and of the Pennsylvania hospital" was by me transmitted to the Governor of Louisiana, who by his letter, under date of the 7th June last, has acknowledged its receipt. He has transmitted also extracts from the journal of the council of the administration of that hospital, expressive of the thanks of the council for the generous support afforded their institution, and of their high sense also of the truly benevolent and honorable motives which influence the councils of Pennsylvania, copies of all which documents I lay before you; likewise of the correspondence between the governors of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, that was consequent to a protest by the last legislature against the passage and operation of certain acts of the Legislature of that State, authorising the erection of obstructions to the navigation in the River Delaware.

The various duties imposed upon the Executive have been duly performed. The Sword directed to be presented in the name of the Commonwealth to Captain Stewart, will be ready for presentation in a few days. The medals directed by the Legislature to be presented to Commodore Perry and his brave associates for the splendid victory achieved on Lake Erie, would have been presented long before this time, had not the various public services on which the Commodore has been ordered, prevented him from furnishing as was wished and expected, a profile for one side of the medal. This obstacle it is confidently believed will soon be obviated, and the object of the Legislature attained so soon as the artist, pre-eminent for his talents and to whom alone the work could be confided, shall have completed for the United States prior engagements.

Having, in discharge of the obligations imposed by the Constitution, given the General Assembly information of the State of the Commonwealth, and recommended such measures as in my judgment will promote the general good; it remains for me to add, that it will give me the purest pleasure to co-operate with you in the adoption of all measures calculated to secure and perpetuate the happiness, the rights and the privileges of our constituents.

Simon Snyder

Sir,

In conformity to a request of the General Assembly of Louisiana, I have the honor to solicit the influence of the State over which your Excellency presides, in obtaining from the general government the stationing of a steam frigate on the Mississippi.

The free and uninterrupted use of this stream is not more interesting to this State, than to the others in the vast section of the union the surplus produce of which, in whole or in part, annually passes to a market by that great highway.

It is believed that such a frigate would, in time of war, present the most convenient and efficient means of defence. If in this respect, your sentiments correspond with ours, may I ask of your Excellency to recommend the subject to the Delegates from your State in Congress, who will, I am persuaded, find the delegation from Louisiana, disposed to confer and co-operate in the best mode of attaining this desired object.

State of Connecticut.

Hartford, May 28th, A. D. 1816.

Sir,

I herewith transmit to your Excellency a copy of certain resolutions adopted by the Legislature of this state; and have the honor to be,

With Very great respect, Sir,
His Excellency the Governor } Your Excellency's obedient of the State of Pennsylvania } And most humble servant,

John Cotton Smith

General Assembly of Ohio.

The Committee to whom was referred the resolution of the Legislature of North Carolina, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, requiring the Legislatures of the several states to district the same, for the purpose of choosing Representatives in Congress, and also for the purpose of appointing Electors of President and Vice President of the United States, have had the same under consideration and are of opinion that as Representatives in Congress are elected for the purpose of acting upon all the various subjects which may come before the national Legislature, as well of a local as of a general nature, it is important that they should be intimately acquainted with the local situation, interest and sentiments of the particular sections of the Union which they represent; and that the people should be able to know the qualifications of those whom they elect to represent them; and that the several states should be districted in the most advantageous manner, to effect these important objects: Yet, believing that this can be done, and that most of the States are districted for the purpose of electing Representatives in Congress, under the provisions of the Constitution as it now exists; and that serious inconveniences might in many instances result from requiring absolutely the several states to be divided into a number of districts equal to the number of Representatives to which such state may be entitled, each district to elect one Representative, and no more; your committee are therefore of opinion that it is unnecessary and inexpedient to alter the Constitution of the United States in this respect. Your Committee are also of opinion that it would be impolitic to district the several states for the purpose of appointing Electors of President and Vice President, believing that it would be productive of no material advantage. Electors being chosen to perform one definite act only, the same necessity for their being acquainted with the local situations and interests of the different sections of the union does not exist as in case of Representatives in Congress. Districting the States for the purpose of appointing Electors might also, by dividing a state, destroy the influence to which it is entitled and would otherwise possess, and would in many instances prevent a fair expression of the will, and produce a choice of Electors, a majority of whom might act in opposition to the wishes of a majority of the Citizens of the state for which they are appointed: your committee therefore recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:—

Resolved, by the General Assembly of the state of Ohio, That it is inexpedient, in the opinion of this General Assembly, to adopt the following amendment to the Constitution of the United States: proposed by the Legislature of the State of North Carolina, to wit:—

“That for the purpose of choosing Representatives in the Congress of the United States, each state shall, by its Legislature, be divided into a number of districts equal to the number of Representatives to which such state may be entitled.

“Those districts shall be formed of contiguous territory, and contain as nearly as may be, an equal number of inhabitants entitled by the Constitution to be represented. In each district the qualified voters shall elect one Representative, and no more.

General Assembly of Ohio.

The Committee to whom was referred the resolution of the Legislature of the State of Georgia, recommending an alteration of the Constitution of the United States, reducing the term of service of Senators in Congress from six to four years, beg leave to report:—

That although your committee are fully impressed with the belief that in order to secure our national liberties and privileges, as well as to give tone and energy to government, it is of the utmost importance that the people should have frequent opportunities of expressing their sentiments and feelings upon national affairs, and of displacing such of their Representatives as may be incompetent or dangerous, and of electing others to fill their places more able or less dangerous; yet to prevent the pernicious consequences of sudden and violent changes, to temper and regulate the force of popular impulse, to ensure a proper degree of uniformity and stability to our national councils, they believe it to be of equal importance that one branch of the general government should be composed of men who are not so immediately dependant upon popular opinion; who are subject to be less frequently changed; and a majority of whom may at all times possess the advantages of experience in legislative proceedings, and a knowledge of the measures and policy of government.

Your committee are also of opinion, that it is inexpedient to change the principles of the constitution, except to remedy material and palpable defects: They therefore respectfully recommend the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, That it is inexpedient in the opinion of this General Assembly, to adopt the amendments to the Constitution of the United States, proposed by the Legislature of the State of Georgia, reducing the term of service of Senators in Congress, from six to four years.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor be requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions to the Executive of each of the several states in the Union.

The bond of John Conrad conditioned for faithfully executing the office of Auctioneer of the City of Philadelphia in this Commonwealth dated the twenty seventh day of January, inst, in two thousand pounds with Thomas Kittera and James Maxwell as sureties,—was this day approved by the Governor, and filed.

The opinion of the Attorney General, which was requested by the Governor on the twenty third instant, as to his authority to issue process for the sale of the lands that were formerly the property of John Nicholson made subject to the liens of the Commonwealth, and were compromised by the State Commissioners with individuals claiming title thereto under the authority of the fourth section of the act of Assembly of the nineteenth day of March 1807, was this day received.—In the following words, to wit:

Harrisburg, January 29th 1817.

Sir,

Upon examining the 1st & 4th sections of the act of No 7 (4 Smi. 381) relative to recovery of the liens on Nicholsons lands &ca and also the supplement to that law (4 Sm. 499) I do not think it necessary that the Governor should issue process to assignees of the Commissioners to make sale of the lands.

The 4th Sect of the first mentioned act permits the assignees "at any time to proceed to sell" leaving it to the option of the assignees to select the time of selling—but, if the Governor issues process it must in the words of the 1st Sect. "Command" them to make sale, & therefore the issuing of process might restrict the license given to the assignees by the 4th Sect.

The authority of the assignees to sell is derived from the assignment of the Commissioners, & the 4th Section of the law.

Nevertheless, the practice of Governor McKean on this law is entitled to great respect; and the issuing of process could do no injury if never issued, unless at the request of the Assignees. Issuing the process "commanding," the Assignees to sell, when the Assignees themselves request it to be done, and of their own accord desire to sell, even it be unnecessary, could not possibly do any injury to any one, and would not be any assumption of authority. The issuing process in such cases, when so requested, would remove scruples in the title from the minds of those (if there be any) who view the subject differently from myself.

Secy. of Com.

I am very Respectfully &c

The Governor having read and fully considered the Bill which originated in the House of Representatives entitled "A supplement to an Act entitled "An Act to incorporate the City of Pittsburg," presented for his approbation on the 28th Ult. and not approving thereof, this day directed the Secretary of the Commonwealth to return the said Bill to the said house in which it originated, together with the following objections, Vixt

First—The office of Alderman is created by law; the officer is commissioned for the purposes defined in the charter of incorporation; his authority is circumscribed by the confines of the borough. It is a matter of great doubt, and merits the re-consideration of the Legislature, whether constitutionally by a law of date subsequent to their commissions all the authority vested in justices of the peace, in civil and criminal matters, can be imparted to, and be exercised by such alderman throughout the County beyond the limits of the jurisdiction which they can claim in virtue of their commissions.

Second—The Expediency and necessity of extending as contemplated by the bill, the powers of the aldermen is very questionable. It is not sanctioned by the precedent of any similar provision in the act incorporating the City of Philadelphia, and the want of it has not been there felt.

Reluctantly as I do this act, it yet becomes the more imperiously a duty, becomes the more imperiously a duty, because of the knowledge I have lately acquired, that one of the gentlemen, whom the law, incorporating the City of Pittsburgh, (along with others so far forth as it can be done by a law,) translates into the office of alderman, constituting him a judge of a court of record with jurisdiction in criminal cases, similar to a court of quarter Sessions, and who is now acting in these several capacities, was not at the time of passing that law, nor is he now legally a justice of the peace or alderman.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I have had presented to me a bill entitled "An Act to amend and continue an Act for establishing an health office and to secure the city and port of Philadelphia from the introduction of pestilential and contagious diseases, and the supplement thereto;" but doubting the constitutionality of one of its provisions, I return it to the house of Representatives, where it originated, for the reason following:

The first section of the Act establishing an health office, passed 17th March 1806, which this bill; along with a supplement thereto, amends and continues, directs the Governor to commission and appoint on or before the first day of May in each year, five persons who shall compose the Board of Health. The same section contains amongst other provisions, the following, Vizt And the said Board shall have, and hereby is vested with full power and authority to make general rules, orders and regulations for the government and management of the Lazaretto, and the vessels, cargoes and persons there detained or under quarantine, and of the health office and public hospitals, and for the mode of visiting and examining vessels, persons, goods and houses; and shall also have power to appoint such other officers and servants as from time to time shall be found necessary to perform the several duties required by this Act and their future regulations, provided that such officer shall not hold any office of profit or trust under the United States, and to remove any of the officers or servants by them appointed, and to appoint others in their places, and to allow and pay the said officers and servants so appointed such compensation for their respective services as the said Board shall deem just and proper. And the Governor is hereby authorised and required to appoint one physician who shall reside at the Lazaretto and be denominated the Lazaretto physician, and one physician who shall reside in the City of Philadelphia, who shall be denominated the Port Physician, one health officer and one quarantine master, all of whom shall be under the direction and control of the Board of Health, and may be removed from office by the Governor, at the request of the majority of the members of the Board of Health."

The bill under consideration directs that the Board of Health shall consist of eleven members: That the authority to appoint them shall no longer be exercised by the Governor, but that in future six of the board shall be elected and appointed by the Select and Common Councils of the City of Philadelphia, three by the Commissioners of the township of the Northern Liberties and the Commissioners of Spring Garden, and two by the Commissioners of the district of Southwark and the Commissioners of Moyamensing; and vests in the Board so to be constituted, all the authority conferred by the Act of 1806, and by its supplement.

Admitting it a maxim in government as sound as it is indisputable, that the agent cannot possess powers superior to his principal; and as it cannot be contended that either of the bodies corporate or local authorities named in the bill, can by ordinance or otherwise directly or indirectly intermeddle with the police of any other of them, or with the affairs of the County of Philadelphia, but that all exercise of authority by them is circumscribed by their respective corporate limits:—Can it then be competent for any one of those local authorities separately, or all of them jointly, to create a magistracy denominated a Board of Health:—vest it with authority to make certain rules and regulations for governing the police of the Lazaretto and the affairs of the health department generally, to be executed and enforced not only throughout the County of Philadelphia, but to be extended into and enforced in the adjoining county of Delaware, by any as many officers as they may deem necessary to appoint? Where also by mandate they controul the Lazaretto Physician and quarantine master (may peremptorily confine those officers to the Lazaretto—see the 10th Section of the law of 1806) and in Philadelphia the port Physician and Health Officer; all of whom though appointed and commissioned by the Governor, for general state purposes, he may be urged and desired to remove from office by the Agents of that species of local authority which was originally constituted for very different purposes, and who, as well as the Board of Health by them thus created, the officers and servants of such board (no one individual of whom is officially known to him) are not under his controul, and on every view wholly independent of the Executive.

From an institution composed of such heterogenous materials, its component parts so arranged as that the regular and necessary gradation of power is reversed, a hope can scarcely be cherished that the recent happy results from a judicious arrangement of the present system and faithful execution of duty by the officers will be long continued to our metropolis & to Pennsylvania.

Severe bodily indisposition being the real cause, will, I trust, prove an apology as well for the delay of this communication, as for its imperfections.

HARRIS. Ap. 15th 1817.

Sir,

The construction which I am disposed to give to the 5th Section of the Gen^l appropriation Act of 1817, coincides with that of Mr Godwin for two reasons principally,

1st Three sections of the road or 15 miles are finished, and 5 sections or 25 miles yet remain to be made. If the $15,000 are to be appropriated to the last 25 miles only in parts proportioned to the whole distance of the road—then only $9,375 can ever be paid by the Com :

2. There are several sections in the law similar, or nearly similar to the 5th Some of the Turnpike Companies noticed in the law had made no progress with their roads—others by activity and zeal, and running in debt, had finished parts of their work. Now I conceive the object of the Legislature was not only to encourage all the companies to hasten the completion of their roads; but also to relieve and assist by immediate advancements in cash those meritorious who, by their activity and enterprize and by involving themselves in debt, (as most of them had done) had completed parts of their undertaking.— I am quite satisfied that such was the intention of the Legislature from a conversation I had (while the bill was pending) with two gentlemen of the Senate relative to the Harris and Pittsburgh Companies, some of which have made parts of their roads—and some have done nothing.

I am respectfully Your Obt Serv^t

Gov. Snyder

Amos Ellmaker.

Whereas by an inquisition taken and held on the twenty second day of the present month in the Township of Newtown in the County of Delaware by James Birchall Esqr Coroner, and a Jury of the said County upon the view of the Body of Edward Hunter Esqr late of the said township and county, it appears that the said Edward Hunter was on the nineteenth instant, wilfully and maliciously killed and murdered by a certain John Craig: And Whereas the reputation of the Government, the peace and security of its Citizens and the obligations of Justice and humanity require, that the perpetrator of an offence so heinous should be brought to speedy Saturday, August 2nd 1817.

The following letter was this day written by the Governor to Captain Charles Stewart—Vizt.

Harrisburg, August 2nd 1817.

To Captain Charles Stewart,
Sir,

I have the honor to present to you (as you will perceive by the enclosed Legislative resolve) the grateful thanks voted by the representatives of your fellow citizens, for your brave conduct in the capture during the late war with an inferior force under your command, of the British ships of War Cyane and Levant: As still more expressive of patriotic feeling, I present also, as directed, in the name of the people of Pennsylvania, through my Aid, General William Duncan, a Sword, which you are asked to accept in token of their full approbation—And I add as commemorative likewise of that bravery, gallantry and skill, which has humbled an haughty and theretofore unconquered foe.

I shall feel myself honored, if along with the general applause of our fellow citizens, you will accept assurances of high consideration from

Simon Snyder

A letter was also addressed by order of the Governor to Samuel Alexander Esquire, of Cumberland County, touching the complaints lately made to the Legislature against William Ramsey, Esquire, for misconduct in his Office of Prothonotary of the said County &c^a and requesting his removal from the office aforesaid.

Harrisburg, August 2nd 1817.

Sir,

Yours of the 9th Ult, was received by me at Hatborough,—immediately on my return to this place I forwarded your memorial to the Governor—In consequence of your not having applied in the first instance to the Governor, and not to the Legislature, he is placed in a situation very different from that which he otherwise would have been—The tribunal to which you appealed has acquitted him; at least refused to prefer articles of impeachment against him—The Governor must presume that in consequence of having testimony and witnesses on the several complaints preferred against Mr Ramsey, that they must have been satisfied that an impeachment would not be sustained: And as they have examined witnesses on both sides, he must presume, in deference to the legislature that they were more competent to decide than he can be, having heard only one party. There is another difficulty presents itself to the mind of the Governor, which is, that the subject of complaint is, at least in part, now pending before the Supreme Court.—If under this circumstance he were to remove Ramsey, the Governors opinion so far as it might have weight before the Court would be operative against the impartial trial of Ramsey's case. For these reasons, among others of minor importance, the Governor feels himself too delicately situated to interfere at this time.

Very Respectfully,

Your obt Servt

N. B. Boileau, Secry

Mr Samuel Alexander

Monday, September 8th 1817.

Under the direction of the Governor a letter was written by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to John Sergeant Esquire, of Philadelphia, who is one of the Counsel for the Defendants claiming title from the Commonwealth in certain suits brought by the Representatives of George Croghan, deceased, in the following words, to wit:

Harrisburg, Septemr 8th 1817.

Sir,

I am not able to ascertain upon what authority the Representatives of Croghan pretend to establish their claim to lands lying in the County of Beaver, which are the subject of controversy, whether from any right derived immediately from the crown, from an alleged purchase from the Indians, or grant from the Government of Virginia—The defendants however hold the land under title derived from Pennsylvania.—I probably can give no information that will aid you in preparing for the defence; permit me however, to direct your attention to the Charter granted to William Penn (see Smith's Edition of the laws, appendix page 406. Section 1.) By which you will perceive that the river Delaware, beginning at twelve miles northward of the town of New Castle, was to be the Eastern boundary of the province.—The lands to extend westward five degrees in longitude from the said eastern boundary—You will perceive that the western boundary between Pennsylvania and Virginia would be a zigzag line, corresponding with the meandrings of the river Delaware—But it was agreed between the two States, to make the dividing line a straight line, extending from the termination of the five degrees of longitude, to Lake Erie—Hence a part of the lands claimed by Virginia fell into the State of Pennsylvania; and Beaver County, in part at least, comes under that description—I believe the land in controversy was claimed by the State of Virginia prior to the compromise—For the recognition and confirmation of this agreement I refer you to Smiths edition of the laws—page 261—Vol. 2.—Also Smiths notes—same Vol. pages 129-133 &c By which Act you will perceive that the rights of individuals acquired previously to the passage of the act, were saved, and confirmed—Subsequently to the passage of this Act, the Executive of Virginia furnished to the Executive of this State, a list of the names of the individuals, who, it was alleged had acquired rights to lands which had fallen within the boundaries of Pennsylvania. By a minute and careful examination of that list, we cannot find the name of George Croghan. From this we might at least infer, that George Croghan did not hold under Virginia—And that if he has any right, it must have been derived immediately from the crown,—or from a purchase from the Indians.—But from a royal proclamation, a copy of which I send you, it would appear that the crown had prohibited any such purchase—I send you also a proclamation by William Penn: Whether either of them will be of any service, you will determine after their perusal—If you should think of any papers or documents likely to be deposited in this Office, which might throw any light on the subject, or in the Land Office, on intimation given, prompt attention shall be paid to such intimation.—I have written to Mr S. Power, Senator from Beaver County, who appeared to be much interested on the behalf of the defendants, that it would be well for him to lose no time in communicating to Mr Wilkins, any, and every

A letter was this day written to John Conrad, Auctioneer, in answer to his letter of the 28th of July last, enclosing to him an extract from a letter written by the Governor on the subject of Auctions and Auctioneers, which it was expected would convey the Governors views of the mode of Mr Conrads conducting the business of his office of Auctioneer.—Which letter was as follows, to wit:

Harrisburg, Sepr 9th 1817.

Sir,

Your answer to my letter of 28th July last, has been duly received and submitted to the Governor.—On the next page you see an Extract from the Governors letter, on the subject of Auctioneers, which will convey to you his views of the mode of your conducting the business of an auctioneer.

Very Respectfully,

John Conrad Esqr

Extract from the Governors letter, dated 3rd Sepr 1817.

"Jno Conrad is certainly violating the Spirit of the laws, authorizing the appointment of a certain number of Auctioneers for Philada—The Governor himself cannot appoint one over the number—Yet from his advertisements it would appear that he does indirectly, what the Governor cannot accomplish by a direct appointment—There is notice of an Auction by John Conrad, another by Conrad connected with Farrand—here is public notice of a separate interest founded on separate business—that this is the fact Mr Conrads Statement makes evident;—he says they are kept in separate rooms, but in the same building.—But if this circumstance proves a justification, then may he establish as many Auctions, separate from one another as there are rooms in the Shakespear buildings.—The objections to two Auctions in one building, are quite as strong, as to have them in Separate houses.—There always has appeared to me some mystery in these connections, between Auctioneers and Commission Merchants.—Why cannot the latter furnish his goods for sale as do all other persons? Why must the Commission Merchants name, either precede or follow that of the Auctioneer on the Advertisements? If done for any purpose valuable, it amounts to this.—“You, who know it to be unsafe to trust the Auctioneer with your property, may have your business done by me, Mr Lippencott or Farrand”—In short it is, in express terms saying, that I Lippencott will manage your affairs, and the Auctioneer appointed by the Governor shall have nothing further to do with it, than merely to Register my acts for a small per centage—Independent of distrust in the Auctioneer, thus openly evinced, there is something humiliating connected with it, as respects the authority that appoints.”

A Proclamation.

Although the wise and holy Governor of the Universe has in his righteous providence afflicted divers sections of the United States with wasting sickness; Yet, have we the greatest reason to adore and praise the Supreme disposer of events; who, dealing infinitely better with us than we deserve, has averted from our State the hand of the destroying Angel, and blessed our land with the fruits of the earth in the greatest abundance.

Happy in complying with a desire expressed in a Resolution adopted by the Revd Presbyterian Synod of Pennsylvania, I do recommend to my fellow citizens of the Commonwealth, that on the third Thursday, in the present month of November, they meet for religious worship, and to offer up their unfeigned thanks and acknowledgments to Almighty God, the source, and benevolent bestower, of this great good; and for the many other blessings, both spiritual and temporal, which we enjoy:—that he will extend, bless, and perpetuate them to the latest posterity:—That he would also, graciously foster and promote the endeavours now making to spread the knowledge of the Redeemer throughout the world: pour out his spirit upon all orders of men; bring us to a hearty repentance and reformation; purify and sanctify all his churches; make ours Emanuel's land; and fill the world with his glory.

Given under my head and the Great Seal of the State at Harrisburg this first day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventeen, and of the Commonwealth the forty second.

N. B. Boileau, Secy

Tuesday, December 2nd 1817.

A Warrant was this day signed by the Governor, and issued under the Great Seal, authorising and requiring Samuel Galloway, Sheriff of the County of Adams, to execute the sentence of a Court of Oyer and Terminer, and Jail delivery of the said County, upon a certain James Hunter, on Saturday the third day of January next, for Murder in the first degree, of which he was convicted at the said Court, which was held in the Borough of Gettysburg, on the fifteenth day of November last.

Wednesday, December 3rd 1817.

Letters were this day written to the Speaker of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, covering proposals from sundry persons for executing the printing work, of the respective Houses.

Thursday, December 4th 1817.

A joint Committee from the Senate and from the house of Representatives this day waited on the Governor and informed him that the Legislature was now ready to receive any communication that he might think it proper to make:—Whereupon the Governor informed the Committee that he would make his general communication to the Legislature by Message to morrow at twelve oClock.

Friday, December 5th 1817.

Agreeably to appointment, a Message from the Governor on the General State of the Affairs of the Commonwealth, was this day presented to both Houses of the Legislature, by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, as follows, to wit:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Fellow-Citizens,

At this auspicious moment, when our country has reached the goal of her wishes and obtained the object for which she has twice contended and so nobly struggled; with a national government possessing all the powers adequate to the purposes of general sovereignty, and competent to the energy absolutely necessary to the management and direction of the general weal; supporting the Confederate union, and the national faith and honour with foreign governments; securing domestic tranquility and paying the strictest attention to the sacred rules of justice and equity by a faithful observance of all public engagements; to know that the foundation of our national policy is laid in the pure and immutable principles of private morality; when with proud recollection we can view the eminent height we have attained from the operation of our laws and institutions; to know my native State to be attached to a government which practically has exemplified those invaluable attributes which secure to it our constancy and devotion and commands the respect of the world; and to know Pennsylvania to be eminently distinguished for her public and private virtues: I say, at this auspicious moment, with this knowledge and the rational pleasing anticipations of future lasting happiness for our beloved country, to retire from the arduous duties of office, is to me the highest gratification; and with sincere and lively gratitude to Almighty God, our great protector, and with most hearty congratulations, I felicitate you, gentlemen, and our constituents, on our present happiness and glorious prospects.

But as we know that all governments have degenerated, and that abuse of power is ever consequent to degeneracy; therefore, whilst we happily know that reason, rather than habit, is the governing principle with our citizens and whilst we yet have fair claims to superior political purity, let us, by promoting virtue and knowledge, guard against all violent political concussions and those revolutions that arise from necessity, which when real, supercede all law and level all distinctions: let us in the discharge of Official and private duty, ever recollect that more is not possessed than a right to perform lawful actions; that we cannot be vested with authority to command what is contrary to the cardinal virtue, justice; nor with the right to proscribe our fellow-citizens for an honest diversity of opinion on questions of policy. Thus, if founded on that decree of Heaven which willed man free, and in those immutable rights deducible from it, our laws will ever foster the inclination which the Pennsylvanian naturally feels to be obedient; and, clothed with the venerable habit of ancestral sanction, they will descend to, and command the love and veneration of the latest posterity.

Regarding the impartial administration of justice of primary importance, the Legislature has recently in various laws been attempting to secure it from every danger. The extension of peremptory challenges on the trial of causes civil and criminal, the permanent provision for the decision of those causes in which the president of a Court may have been of counsel, or may be personally interested, have been found of beneficial tendency. Extending the right of challenge yet farther, and enacting that where counties are interested, the cause may under proper regulations be tried in a contiguous county, would afford additional security and keep pure the streams of justice; and perhaps thus might be obviated the temptation to fraud and perjuries, sometimes practised to give jurisdiction to the federal courts, and forcing our citizens, at intolerable expense, from the most remote quarters of the State to those tribunals.

The knowledge of truth being essential to just decisions, greater facility and certainty than is now had, would appear necessary in the adduction of testimony. Doubts are entertained whether there be any legal mode of obtaining depositions by commission or rules of court, in cases which arose in the county courts and are pending in the Supreme Court of error, although it may be all-important in preparing for the contingency of a new trial. This might be remedied by enacting that rules or commissions might issue, and that the testimony thus produced shall be as admissible upon any subsequent trial, as if the cause were pending for trial where the rule or commission issued.

Whether attachments to compel the attendance of witnesses may run to any part of the State—whether a tender of expenses should be proved before they issue—whether depositions should not be taken in criminal as well as civil cases, might also be proper questions for statutory regulation.

Considering the usage of non-suits at bar as affording an unfair advantage to plaintiffs, it was restricted by an Act of the Legislature. The exposition however of this law by our courts does not prohibit the plaintiff from taking a non-suit after a full trial, unless the jury have deliberated, or received the charge of the Court; thus the plaintiff when fairly defeated may retire in safety and renew the attack at pleasure, while the defendant is disabled from avoiding the destructive effect of a verdict. This inequality works injustice, and requires further interposition.

More than twenty five years have elapsed since the adoption of any general system of practice by our courts. So great have since been the changes in our laws and so important have been the judicial decisions, that it is wonderful a subject so operative in the speedy administration of justice has obtained no consideration. To obtain uniformity I would recommend statutory provision.

Amongst the vices that in a great measure go unpunished in Pennsylvania, is the conveying away by deed, estates with fraudulent views, and the acquisition of property without any intention of paying therefor. To guard against the frequency of the first, I would suggest the authorising of our Courts of justice, where circumstances are sufficiently strong to raise a probable presumption of fraud, to throw the burden of proof of consideration for the estate granted, upon the grantee. And as to the latter description of immoralities, I cannot, on moral principles, distinguish between him who with fair appearances has got into credit on purpose to rob, and him who borrows my horse for a day with the intention never to return him, and who if detected after the fraud is punished as a felon.

Anxious to see perfected in Pennsylvania what has for a century engaged the attention of the philanthropists of the old world, I would once more invite your attention to the subject of criminal jurisprudence generally. The report of the Attorney General made some years since at the instance of the government, and recent essays by members of the General Assembly eminently qualified for the task, will I trust so far have matured that interesting subject, as that, from your hands, our constituents may confidently anticipate a system more perfectly guarding against outrage the person and property of the good citizen; graduating the scale of crimes and punishments by the rules of right reason, when at the same time it shall secure to the accused a speedy impartial trial, and be altogether congenial with the benevolent spirit of the age.

In the annual communications of the executive to the General Assembly, a standing theme has been afforded by the all-important subject of education.

Much has been said, nothing effectual has been done, and the situation of it is still such as to be much regretted. To expatiate upon the utility of a general diffusion of knowledge, would be as idle as the means of effecting it appear to be embarrassing. The fact however is palpable, that science and intellectual improvement are far behind the progress of wealth and population. Another year has confirmed me in the opinion expressed to the last legislature, that much good could be attained through superior instructors. Believing that these may be acquired in a very simple manner, I presume again to recommend that some mode be prescribed by law for ascertaining the qualifications of those who offer to instruct youth. That such as are approved, and who at the expiration of the period for which they may have engaged to teach, produce a favorable report of the conduct and progress of the school, by a committee to be for that purpose appointed in each county, shall receive out of the State Treasury a small salary in addition to individual subscription. This I hesitate not to say would be the means of banishing ignorance and negligence from presiding over the education of children, and prevent that deplorably useless consumption of time, that exhibition of idleness and demoralizing habits, so commonly prevalent at our country schools.

In the same communication I submitted also a plan for rendering more energetic and efficient our militia force. Impressed with the great importance of this subject, yet having nothing new to offer, I beg leave to refer the Legislature to that communication; likewise to a reiteration of a wish that seduction be punished as a criminal offence. That regulations be made corrective of abuses under our insolvent laws, and under the law relative to mortgages; amendments of the law generally called the hundred dollar act; an interposition on behalf of the unfortunate and unprotected wife and children of the confirmed drunkard; and the useless multiplication of oaths and the irreverence with which they are administered—These subjects, because of the multiplicity of (perhaps) more important business, were then passed over; but deeming them of some importance to the community, I recommend them to your consideration.

The accompanying documents upon the subject will show that the thanks of the Commonwealth to Captain Charles Stewart of the navy, for his distinguished bravery and skill in the engagement between the United States frigate Constitution and the british ships of War Cyane and Levant, were presented to that gallant officer by General William Duncan, as directed by a resolution of the last Legislature, together with an appropriate sword, ordered by the same resolution as an additional token of approbation by his fellow citizens of Pennsylvania.

The obstacles to a presentation of Medals to Commodore Perry and his brave associates; mentioned in my first communication to the last Legislature, have been obviated. The dies have been sunk by an approved artist, and the medals would before this time have been presented, if the striking of them had not been prevented in consequence of the imperfections of the machinery in the United States mint, which alone was of power adequate to the execution of them. But I have assurance that this obstacle will in a short time be also surmounted.

The Legislature of Louisiana, duly appreciating the liberal donation by our last General Assembly towards the endowment of an hospital erecting at New Orleans, have passed a law containing the provisions prescribed in the Act of this State; a copy whereof and of other documents, together with a plan of the building and copies of a correspondence on the subject, is herewith laid before you.

A considerable number of muskets and a large quantity of camp equipments and some ordnance, have been collected and are now safely deposited in the arsenal at this place, as directed by law.—A small appropriation may be necessary to furnish the requisite tools and furniture for the work shops, to enable the armorer to put and keep in repair such of the arms as were injured during the late war.—The Adjutant General will in due time report generally upon the state of our militia, and upon the military property belonging to the State. I add as well an extract of a letter to the executive from Wm Clark, the contractor for erecting the arsenal at Meadville, giving an account of the progress of that building, and asking an additional appropriation, as an extract of a letter from the principal of the ordnance department, proposing to deliver, if the state should prefer it, artillery and equipments, in lieu of a part of the small arms to which we are entitled, under the Act of Congress for arming the whole militia of the United States.

Under a law of the last Legislature, Robert Brooke and Charles Treziyulney, gentlemen of science and acknowledged practical skill, were appointed on the twenty-eighth day of May last to view and examine the route of the contemplated canal to connect the waters of the Seneca lake with the Tioga river. These commissioners proceeded to execute the trust, but not yet having returned, more cannot be said upon this interesting subject, than that their report as soon as received shall be laid before the Legislature.—A correspondence with the Governor of New York, is now submitted.

Nothing has yet resulted for submission to the Legislature, from the commission constituted by law in conjunction with the state of New Jersey, for adjusting the controversy that has arisen between that State and Pennsylvania, in consequence of obstructions to the navigation in the Delaware, said to have been created under a law of New Jersey.

From applications made to the Land office for patents, it has been discovered, that the late John Nicholson, deceased, is interested in large bodies of lands which remained concealed from the Commissioners, who procured for the State by compromise and sale of such part of his estate as became known to them, payment on account of her lien upon his estate.—That commission having ceased and the accounts of the Commissioners being closed, there is not vested in any one, authority to benefit the state by the discovery.—In order to secure payment of a large debt yet due the Commonwealth, I recommend the enactment of a law on similar principles with the one under which the late commissioners acted.

The accompanying financial report by the Auditor General, notwithstanding the laudable appropriation and liberal expenditure of public treasure in aid of roads, bridges and other public improvements, presents an unexpended balance in the treasury on the first day of November last of $160,199.09. A small sum is found to have been expended in providing more materials for the intended State Capitol. Possessing ample means, the adoption of a plan for the building seems to be the only obstacle to an immediate prosecution of this highly desirable and necessary work. This unexpended balance and the anticipated increase of funds, will allow free scope for the enlarged views entertained by our constituents for the improvement of the State.

Having discharged as well the constitutional injunction as those duties assigned by law and recommended what in my judgment would promote the public weal; it remains for me to add, that it has ever given me the purest pleasure to cooperate with the General Assembly in such measures as were calculated to perpetuate the happiness of our constituents: that in the discharge of executive functions, I was ever solicitous to collect my duty from a just appreciation of every circumstance by which it might be affected. I heard with attention and endeavored to decide with integrity. I had a wish it is true, to regard the public voice, and I confess myself to have been ambitious to conciliate and enjoy the public confidence. But I could never abandon the superior claims of self approbation and conscious rectitude. Satisfied on these points, (and ever aware that in the performance of executive duties by a merely practical man, it is difficult if not impossible to avoid error) I have ever acted without in the least regarding what the world might say about it; and those who know me best can bear witness, that I have borne with patience the consequences which to me, have casually resulted from them.—For the errors I may have committed, I am consoled with the reflection that perhaps no important good was ever altogether free from alloy, and that my fellow citizens will, I trust, charitably find a palliation in the motive which at any time may have misled me.

The confidence and support which I have experienced from my fellow-citizens, for the greater portion of an active life, have impressed my mind with deep and lasting gratitude. A consciousness of having with diligence and fidelity endeavored to discharge the duties which a partial public has on various occasions assigned me, and of the liberality which has been evinced towards me by a succession of Legislatures during an arduous administration, heightens the satisfaction I have in surrendering it to an able successor. And whilst I bid you, and my fellow-citizens generally, an affectionate farewell, I implore for my country the blessings of an all-wise superintending Providence.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this fifteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventeen, and of the Commonwealth the forty-second.

By the Governor,

N. B. Boileau, Secrv

Tuesday, December 16th 1817.

A Certificate of the Election of William Findlay, Esquire, as Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, agreeably to the Constitution of the said Commonwealth signed by the Speaker of the Senate, and by the Speaker of the House of Representatives was presented to the Governor elect, who was thereupon introduced by a joint committee, to both Houses in joint meeting in the Chamber of the House of Representatives, where being seated in the front of the Speakers of the two Houses, the oaths required by the Constitution and laws were administered to him in due form, by the Speaker of the Senate, in the presence of the members of the Senate, and the Speaker and members of the house of Representatives, and were subscribed by him.

Proclamation of the said election having been made, and the Governor being duly qualified as aforesaid, he addressed both houses, as follows, to wit:—

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Friends and Fellow-Citizens,

In entering upon the discharge of these duties to which I have been called by the voice of the people, I avail myself of the opportunity now presented, to return to them, through you, my acknowledgments for this distinguished mark of their favor and confidence. Sensible, as I am, of the arduous duties, and high responsibilities, imposed by the constitution and laws on the executive magistrate of our state, I shall not expect to discharge them without having occasion to rely on the continuance of that favor and confidence, and to solicit indulgence for such imperfections as may occur. An exemption from error, it were presumptuous to expect; but whatever can be effected by an ardent attachment to our republican institutions, by a zeal in the performance of duty, strengthened by those solemn sanctions which you have just witnessed and from an entire devotion of my best abilities and untiring industry to the public welfare, I may confidently promise. With the exertion of these, aided by your wisdom, patriotism and friendly dispositions, a kind Providence, I humbly trust, will continue to dispense to our beloved country, those blessings, by which it has hitherto been so pre-eminently distinguished.

I cannot but felicitate myself, when I reflect on the auspiciousness of the period, at which the task of administering these duties has been assigned to me. I am cheered by the recollection that I shall have the advantage of the example of my distinguished predecessor, who has filled the chair of state for the constitutional term, with signal fidelity and success. Through a period of uncommon national difficulty and embarrassment, terminating at length in war, this State has fulfilled her duty to the nation, free from the influence of sectional prejudice and local jealousy, while in her interior, the march of improvement has been both steady and rapid.

In the meantime, the general government has been so wisely conducted, as to have advanced, the interests, and eminently secured the confidence of its citizens. It is at peace at home and abroad, and its character respected by all nations.

These results furnish new proofs of the efficiency of a republican government. Founded on the popular will, and administered by agents of the people's choice, it has ceased to be a matter of experiment, but has proved itself competent to the demands of peace, and the exigencies of war—to the preservation of the general weal, and to the diffusion of private happiness.

Thanks to the wisdom, the patriotism and the valor of our ancestors, it is not left to us, fellow citizens, to purchase our liberties at the price of our blood. To them, under the guidance of the Great Arbiter of Nations, we are indebted for manifold blessings; yet there remains to us a wide field of usefulness, demanding the employment of our best faculties. Pennsylvania, as well from her locality as from her population and resources, forms an important member of the Union, and her measures thence derive a powerful influence. It becomes us, then, in a spirit of conciliation and forbearance with harmony of design, and unity of action, to endeavor to render ourselves worthy of the high trust to which we are called, and of the continued approbation of our country, by persevering in a disinterested devotion to her cause, and by cultivating with care those means we possess of advancing the general interests.

To accelerate the progress of internal improvements, and thereby unite the whole State in one common bond of interest; to uphold, by all our energy, the liberty and independence of our country; to guard the rights of every citizen of the Commonwealth; to maintain the legitimate sovereignty of the state, on the one hand, whilst, on the other, we perform with fidelity our federal obligations; to provide for the general dissemination of knowledge; to advance by salutary regulations, the prosperity of agriculture, manufactures and commerce, so far as they fall within the pale of State legislation; to render the administration of justice easy, expeditious and satisfactory; to establish an efficient militia system; to encourage those arts that supply and assist life; to cherish, by our example, the purity and beauty of the religion of the Redemer, the only stedfast basis of that morality on which republics are founded; and to transmit, untarnished and undiminished, to our posterity, those sacred principles of liberty and equal rights which we inherited from our fathers—these are some of the labours that remain for us to perform, and that our country has a right to expect at our hands.

I renew to you, fellow-citizens, my solemn pledge of a determination to devote myself to the public good, and afford, to the full extent of the executive powers, a ready co-operation in all measures calculated to promote the peace, happiness and liberty of our constituents.

William Findlay.

Harrisburg, Decem. 16th 1817

The Governor then retired, accompanied by the said Committee.

A letter was this day written by order of the Governor to John Quincy Adams, Esquire, Secretary of State for the United States relating to the power to remit militia fines which was in the following words to wit.

Secretarys office,

Harrisburg, January 8th 1818.

Sir,

I am directed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to communicate to you for the information of the President of the United States, a statement of the following particulars.

In the summer of 1814, five thousand men were called for from Pennsylvania by the Executive of the United States for the defence of Baltimore and its vicinity. Nearly the whole number was furnished and received into the service of the United States. Of the men thus furnished about one fourth were volunteers, and in procuring the residue by drafting, a great number of delinquencies occurred among the militia who were drafted for that purpose. The Act of Congress of 1795 Provided for the punishment of these delinquents by Courts martial, but did not specify how, when, or by whom, such Courts Martial should be selected and organized. The militia law of Pennsylvania, passed in 1814, provides for these omissions in the act of Congress of '95, and under both these laws courts martial were held and fines imposed upon all the delinquents. In many cases these fines were high and inflicted upon poor men, especially in the Counties of Dauphin and Lebanon. The quota required from these two counties was about eleven hundred men. They furnished upwards of fourteen hundred of whom about the half were volunteers. In procuring the other half by draft there were many delinquents, and the fines imposed upon these delinquents were so high that the sum assessed upon delinquents in the small counties of Dauphin and Lebanon amounts to nearly fifty thousand dollars.

After the Courts martial had assessed the fines, their proceedings were laid before the Governor of the State who approved in most cases of the sentences, and lists of the fines thus approved of, were transmitted to the United States marshal of the district of Pennsylvania, and to the comptroller of the United States. This took place in the Spring of 1815. A few of the fines were then collected by the deputies of the Marshal, but the collection was soon stopped by direction of the marshal Mr. John Smith. Last summer the collection of these fines was resumed. As many high fines had been imposed upon very poor men, and some upon men who had sufficient excuses for not having obeyed the call, Governor Snyder remitted some fines altogether and moderated others. Of these remissions and moderations, certificates duly authenticated were given to the Deputy Marshals to be used by them in the settlement of their accounts with the marshal, and by the marshal in his settlement with the United States Treasury.

Since the determination of Governor Snyders period of service as Governor, the applications to the present Governor have been very numerous for the remission or moderation of the Court Martial fines. But as a compliance with the request of the applicants would affect the Treasury of the United States the Governor is desirous of knowing the light in which the subject is viewed by the President.

It is conceived here that the power of remitting these fines in the cases that seem strongly to require it, is vested in the Governor. However, some may be of opinion that the power belongs solely to the President, and perhaps some may believe that it is con-currently vested in both. Whatever be the question, there seems to be no doubt from the information that has been received, that the power of remitting and moderating the fines should in equity be exercised in a great many cases. If the authority to remit and moderate be legally vested in the Governor alone; or if it be submitted to him by the President he will proceed to investigate the claims of the applicants with all the care and strictness that circumstances will admit of, and with all fidelity to the interests of the United States.

Allow me to add that as the cases depending on the decision of this question are numerous and pressing, the Governor would esteem it a favour to receive the opinion of the President, as soon as circumstances will admit.

I am Sir,

John Quincy Adams, Esqr
Secretary of State for the United States

With much respect, Yr most obedient servant Tho: Sergeant Secy.

Sir,

I have the honor to be,

With great respect, Sir,

Your Excellency's

Most obed't and most humble servant

J. P. De Gruchy,

Pres't N. B. C.

To his Excellency
William Findlay, Esq.
Governor, &ca &ca Harrisburg.

Extract from the minutes of the Northumberland Bridge Company.

At a meeting of the Northumberland Bridge Company held at the house of the widow Taggart, on the second day of January, 1818, after taking into consideration the affairs of the Company, and considering a communication made thereupon by the President to the Board, it was unanimously

Resolved, That no dividend can be made for the year ending the first Monday of November 1817.

That the following statement, together with the preceding resolution, shall be published for the information of the stockholders; and that a copy thereof shall be forwarded to the Governor, to be laid before the General Assembly of this Commonwealth, signed by the President and countersigned by the Treasurer.

The Board of Managers having, from the commencement of this great work, endeavoured with the most faithful regard to the interest of the stockholders, so to conduct the affairs of the Company as to ensure the building of the bridge in the first place, then to secure its permanence, and lastly, to render the institution as productive to the stockholders as the nature of the case would admit, deem it a duty which they owe to themselves, and to those who have entrusted them with the concern, to state briefly the accounts; and they will afford the reason why a dividend cannot be made at the present time, Vizt.

The stock subscribed amounted to	$90,000.00
--	-------------

The disbursements to this time	$88,076.75
--------------------------------------	-------------

Over and above this sum, the Board determined by their resolution 25 th July last, "that the bridge should be painted, as the best means of preserving it from decay," the expense of which is estimated at	1,000.00
--	----------

Advance to Mr Theodore Burr, the bridge contractor, on his bond. and holding as collateral security, his 400 shares of the bridge stock, value $10,000, without which advance the bridge, after being so far finished, would have rotted for want of being covered, and other necessary work,	6,000.00
---	----------

In addition to these sums, there is a default of the subscription to the stock of about	3,500.00

Leaving a deficiency of $8,576.75.

The Stockholders will perceive by this Statement, that the Board have been under the necessity of appropriating the nett proceeds of the tolls received the last year, which amounts to $3,432.84, towards the current disbursements, and that unless the sums due to the company are paid, they must continue to appropriate the toll monies as received, until the Company is out of debt.

It is proper on behalf of the Board, to state, that the advances thus made, was a case of absolute necessity, and they are confident the company will not ultimately be losers by this advance, as they must eventually, if Mr Burr does not pay, become the proprietors of the 400 shares of stock held by him, as well as of the stock amounting to $3,500, due by those subscribers who have made default.

In the event of the payment of the money so stated to be due to the Company, the stockholders may rest assured that a dividend will immediately be made.

By order of the Board,

J. P. De Gruchy, President

Attest,—Jno Boyd, Treasurer.

To His Excellency William Findlay,
Governor of Pennsylvania.

Sir,

As Marshal of the United States for the Pennsylvania district, I beg leave to address myself to your Excellency, on a subject of great importance to both the federal and state governments, but for the better ordering of which in certain particulars to which I have occasion to invite attention, it appears to me that the state Legislature is more especially empowered, otherwise I should not take the liberty to address myself to you on this subject.

You are no doubt informed of the general course of the recent proceedings in Pennsylvania, for collecting fines assessed by courts martial on persons delinquent under the militia laws in force during the late War. In some portions of this State, for the most part so patriotic and prompt with its services in the common cause of the country, an obstinate opposition has prevailed to the payment of the inconsiderable penalties imposed on the non-performance of the most sacred duties of good citizens.

Not content with availing themselves of every supposed defect in the system as organized by law, delinquents persist in their resistance to it, since the decision of the Supreme Court, in the case of Houston against, Dicks, at Lancaster; and unless further provisions be enacted by the Legislature, in addition to such as already exist, for the maintenance of the militia system, there is reason to apprehend its failure. It is therefore, Sir, that this application is respectfully made to you, and through you to the Legislature now in session, that the constituted authorities of the Commonwealth may be informed how its laws are defeated, in order that they may provide such remedies as their wisdom may suggest.

It has been my fate and that of several of my deputies, to incur many vexations and expensive suits, for executing the final process of Militia Courts Martial, a duty enjoined on us by Acts of Congress, confirmed by those of the State Legislature. Relying on the protection of the Judiciary, we have submitted to these actions, with a resolution to abide implicitly by judicial determinations. But a state of things has now occurred, of which I think we have reason to complain as a grievance, and as such to represent it to the Legislature for correction. From this representation no disrespect will be inferred, I trust, towards any department of the judiciary; none is intended or felt; and I shall be permitted, I flatter myself, without the imputation of it, to expose a public evil, in order that if possible it may be lawfully removed. Notwithstanding the solemn affirmance by the Supreme Court convened in special session last march, at Lancaster, of the proceedings of a Court martial and those of my deputy, in the execution of its sentence, similar actions for the like causes of action have been lately instituted, and are sustained in a Court of Common pleas of this Commonwealth; and I fear that unless checked by legislative interposition, many more of the same character will be attempted, associations having been entered into, and money subscribed for the purpose. But what I think I have peculiar reason to complain of as a grievance is, that in these vexatious actions my deputies are compelled to give bail, and are subjected to arrest by the sheriff, to the infinite inconvenience of public duty and service. I would never claim for myself or deputies any exemption or privileges from the common course of the administration of justice, and I entertain too sincere a respect for all the branches of government in my native State, to oppose the slightest obstacle to the operation of its laws. But certainly it is hard, if just, that we should be harrassed with suits for performing our duties, since that the Supreme Court of the state by affirming our proceedings, have left us no option but to persereve in them; and I submit it to all as an aggravation of this hardship, that in such suits under such circumstances, we should be arrested while on service, and forced to give bail to answer to claims sounding in mere vindictive damages.

I have been led to suppose that bail is not demandable in cases of trespass, unless under very extraordinary circumstances. In the case of Duffield against me (which is reported in the 6th Volume of Mr Binneys reports, page 302) it was adjudged by the Supreme Court, after a deliberate examination of the matter, that the plaintiff could not hold me to bail in such a case; and by the 3d section of the Act entitled "An Act for the regulation of the militia of this Commonwealth," dated the 19th March 1816, it is furthermore declared that no action of "trespass shall be sustained in any court of record within this Commonwealth, in consequence of any proceedings had by any court martial or Courts of appeal." What further provisions may be necessary or proper for preserving the militia system from degradation and destruction, it would be presumptuous in me to suggest. But after such a prohibition by the Legislature, as that I have just mentioned, and that the several adjudications of the Supreme Court concerning the militia laws generally, and concerning bail in actions of trespass against the officers of militia Courts martial in particular, I rely on your indulgence, and that of the Legislature, when I venture to intimate that it would be but a reasonable protection of such officers.

Including the marshal and his deputies, whose especial function is to execute the final process of Courts martial, to provide by law, that they shall not be held to bail in actions of trespass brought to question their proceedings, I am not aware of any failure of justice, to which such a provision would give rise; and I hope it will not be considered an unwarrantable request on my part, that some such principle should be enacted with the sanction of legislative authority: otherwise it would seem to be to little purpose, that the highest judicial tribunal in the state has regulated this subject, while the Courts of Common pleas can renew and increase the public detriment.

It may be within the contemplation of the Legislature to enter much further into the details of similar regulations for preserving the militia system; but it is not for me to anticipate their views. I have limited this appeal to the single evil particularly complained of, and I have refrained from inflaming the representation of that evil with an account of any of the many incidental grievances which accompany its operation.

I request, Sir, that you would be pleased to lay this communication before the Legislature; and I remain, with great consideration and respect,

Your most obedient and humble servant,
Jno Smith, Marshal,
District of Penna.
